Plan 40-Mile Speed Crack-Down

STATE TAKES STEPS TO DENY TIRES, RECAPS

Governor Asks Sheriffs and Mayors to Help State Patrol Enforce Measure.

WOULD LIST NAMES

Program Calls For Check on Speedy Drivers, Rationing Board Action.

If you drive more than 40 miles an hour in Ohio your rationing board won't give you permits for new tires or recaps.

That was the order issued today by Gov. John W. Bricker who asked all sheriffs and mayors to cooperate in a drive to enforce the 40-mile speed limit to save tires.

Letters were mailed today to city and county officials, including Mayor William J. Locke and Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, but neither had received them at noon.

Sheriff Robinson said he would be "glad to help with the program when I get the official request."

Mayors and sheriffs were asked to work with the state highway patrol in obtaining the names and license numbers of motorists who exceed the 40-mile speed limit. The information will be turned over to rationing boards which will deny violators permits for tires or recaps, Gov. Bricker said.

When a motorist applies for a permit to buy a tire or have his old ones retreaded, the rationing board will check his record to see if there are speed violations against him.

State highway patrolmen have intensified their campaign against speeders in the Mansfield area in recent weeks, making scores of arrests, after the federal government asked states to cooperate in the effort to save tires by reducing driving speeds.

Bronx Undergoes Second Strange Attack of Gas

NEW YORK —(AP)— For the second time within a month, a strange stench pollutes the air in the Bronx and again nauseated citizens are clamoring for something to be done about it.

Something is being done but without results, for no one—expert or layman—has found the source of the smell. And many have tried.

Yesterday, for instance, Dr. John Oberwager, health department sanitation chief, postponed his vacation to go hunting for the odor. He didn't find it but right after he left, the wind changed, and there was the smell back again. He and his staff are going back today.

The afflicted area is in Clason Point, a section of about 600 one-family houses and a couple of apartment buildings in the southeast Bronx. Citizens say the odor is indescribable, a combination of

KILL PRISONERS

Nazis Slay 96 When 600 Refuse To Work For Them.

NEW YORK —(INS)— When 600 prisoners of war refused to work, the Germans shot and killed 96 of them and wounded 112 others, the Moscow radio reported today in a broadcast heard by CBS.

The prisoners, who were in a camp near Stettin, demanded to be sent home, it was declared. Thereupon the Nazis fired on them with tommy guns and machine guns.

Services Hit For Loss of Kiska to Japs

Investigator Says Lack of Coordination Let Enemy Succeed.

(By International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash. — Back in Seattle from a five-day tour of Alaska military bases, Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D., Wash.), member of the house naval affairs committee, today bluntly blamed "lack of army and navy coordination" for the escape of Japanese surface forces after the attack on Dutch Harbor early in June.

Magnuson also termed the Japanese occupation of the Aleutians "the scandal of the war," but tempered his criticism with the heartening news that American forces are now on the offensive in the far-flung island chain.

He said his investigation in Alaska showed that Jap surface forces, including an aircraft carrier which took part in the Dutch Harbor attack, escaped possible annihilation because of "a temporary and unfortunate failure of army and navy coordination at the time."

"The army command was located within operating distance of the Japanese task force," Magnuson said. "I have information that it was notified soon after the Dutch Harbor attack that navy patrol planes had a Japanese carrier under continual observation, and that they were waiting for the arrival of army land-based aircraft to make the kill.

"The army command, however, believed its orders were not broad enough to warrant sending out a bombing force at this phase of the battle without definite directions. As a result, army planes remained on the ground and before naval authorities could straighten the matter out, the Japs had slipped away."

The congressman, who is also a navy reserve lieutenant commander, added that he understood "this particular army command has been relieved."

He also declared that there should now be no concern over a unified command in the territory and explained that the navy is now in charge of the Aleutians.

"Army commanders are now

WORKING AGAIN

Cable Plant Busy, With Navy Supervising Output.

BAYONNE, N. J. —(U.P.)— The General Cable corporation having been seized by the navy, again produced wire and cable for the armed forces at capacity today, and 1,000 wildcat strikers were back at work under warning that any interference with operations would be considered "an offense against the United States."

The strike, called Monday because the war labor board would not grant members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase, cost 88 hours' production.

The strikers began returning to work yesterday, shortly after the navy took over the plant. Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen, whom Secretary of Navy Frank Knox ordered to manage the plant, specified that their hours and wages would not be changed and indicated that they might lose a three-cent-an hour night wage differential the WLB had granted.

More Bad News for Japs Reaches Pacific Base

Cargo ships of a transpacific convoy steam into harbor and drop anchor under the guarding guns of a cruiser, foreground, and a destroyer, center, at an undisclosed southwest Pacific base. The American ships brought supplies and munitions to the United States forces at the outpost and some of those supplies now may be in use in the offensive against the Japs.

BIG GUN AT LEGION TO GO

German Cannon to Be Scrapped Next Week; Park Guns Junked Next.

The big German gun on the lawn at the McVey post, American Legion home today was turned over to the county salvage committee. The gun will be removed Wednesday afternoon during ceremonies on the Legion lawn which will mark the opening of the WPB scrap drive in Mansfield.

Carl L. Stough, county salvage chairman, said the Civil war cannons in Central park probably will go next. The city today was seeking war department approval to turn the old cannons over to the

SLAIN TRYING TO KIDNAP OFFICER

One Abductor Killed, Two Others Critically Wounded.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(INS)— One fugitive was shot and killed early today and two others were critically wounded when police closed in with blazing guns on a trio of desperadoes who abducted Logan Stroud, a Chattanooga policeman.

One police officer was slightly wounded in the hand.

Kenneth Jackson, 31, of Mississippi, was the fugitive shot to death. His companions, George K. Matthews, 31, of Kentucky, and Marvin F. Hubbard, 29, of Alabama, were blinded by gunfire and their condition was described as critical.

Prisoner Tears Off Water Spigot, Floods Jail, Court

Mansfield police battled a flood of no small proportions shortly before daylight this morning when an irate prisoner broke off the washbowl spigot in his city jail cell and sent the water flooding over basement sections of the municipal building.

The prisoner got his feet wet and so did all the rest of the officers and firemen on duty at the building at 3:30 a. m. when water started to flow from the cell and rapidly spread through first floor corridors, identification bureau, courtroom, radio room and the office of Police Chief Thomas J. Bell.

City Fireman William Lowman, asleep on the third floor, was aroused to help stem the torrent which was, by that time, several inches deep. Lowman half awake, hurried downstairs to the boiler room to shut off the water main that feeds the entire building.

In the meantime, officers armed themselves with brooms, mops and other house cleaning paraphernalia and began the job of cleaning-up.

The trouble started right after the prisoner, a Mansfield colored resident, was lodged in jail after being arrested for cursing an officer.

Police Lieut. Eugene Hartnett and Patrolman Charles Letizia arrested the man at the intersection of Third and Walnut streets when he remonstrated after being ordered to go home.

NINE KILLED

Entire Crew Dies as Army Bomber Crashes, Burns.

HASTINGS, Mich. —(AP)— Nine officers and crew members were killed in the flaming crash last night of a multi-motored army air force bomber in a cornfield seven miles south of here.

Troops from Fort Custer today guarded the scene where the big plane, reported to be attached to a heavy bombardment group from the Willow Run bomber plant near Ypsilanti, fell.

Public relations officers at Fort Custer said the nine dead were:

Lieut. L. H. Tally, Lieut. Maurice C. McCall, Lieut. Eugene G. King, Second Lieut. James J. Daily, Staff Sgt. John Hazen, Corp. E. L. Prothe, Steve Spantard, George F. Strenge and R. W. Carillon.

Their home addresses were not immediately available.

Children Carry 400 Back to Days of Music Hall, Can-Can

By ESTHER SMITH

The Children's theater took an audience of more than 400 back to the days of the old time music hall last night in its Gay Nineties revue staged as the third and final production of the season in South Park pavilion.

Old songs and dramatic declamations popular just before the turn of the century were brought back by such reigning personalities of the day as Lillian Russell, E. H. Sothern, Anna Held and John L. Sullivan, through the adroit interpretation of the youthful players, while a minstrel show and melodrama added extra flavor.

Presented against a watercolor backdrop of old downtown Mansfield that the audience found a special attraction in itself, the performance was elaborately costumed in finery generously loaned by many Mansfield families. Mrs. Dan Haber, local artist, painted the downtown backdrop and an old-fashioned living room scene for the melodrama.

Directed by Harold McCune, who has just completed his fourth year as director of the organization, the production also featured a group of tiny dancers from the Ethyl Battin studio and a chorus of singers trained by Mrs. Charles Anglin. Mrs. Battin also staged the "Floradora" number by a theater group assisted by June Imhoff, dancer.

The program began with a min-

GERMANS GAIN IN 2 SECTORS AT STALINGRAD

Moscow Communique Admits Reds Retreat Under Heavy Pressure.

HOLDING IN CAUCASUS

Russians Also Claim Their Counter-Attacks Score North of Vital City.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—Front-line dispatches and communiques said today that the Germans had made new gains both northeast and southwest of Stalingrad, one of the most coveted objectives in Adolf Hitler's campaign.

The Soviet noon communique said Russian forces, under heavy enemy pressure, retreated slightly and fortified themselves in new positions south of Kotelnikovski, which is 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Dispatches reported that the Germans had advanced on several sectors near the bank of the Don river in the Kletskaya area, after all-night and all-day tank and motorized infantry attacks. The midnight communique revealed that the Germans had penetrated to the river bank, and they now appeared to be enlarging their wedge. Kletskaya is 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

At least on the Kletskaya front, the Russians were reported to have partially recouped. The Soviet army organ Red Star, said they entrenched themselves in new positions along the river bank, then counter-attacked, improved several positions and recaptured an important hillock.

The noon communique said Germans had broken into the rear of Russian defenses south of Kletskaya, and were suffering heavy losses. Northeast of Kotelnikovski, the Germans were reported hastily building fortifications and trying to fend off Russian counter-attacks until reinforcements could be brought up for a drive toward Stalingrad.

In the north Caucasus, Russian counter-attacks slowed the Germans in the areas of Maikop, Cherkessk and Mineralyne Vody.

In the Krasnodar area, the Germans assaulted in two directions simultaneously yesterday, overwhelming Soviet forces and drove deep into their defenses.

On another sector of the Krasnodar front, the Russians stem-

NEARING BREAK?

Chilean President to Visit United States In Fall.

SANTIAGO — (AP) — The announcement that President Juan Antonio Rios would visit the United States this fall was taken by political leaders today as a sign that Chile was veering sharply toward a break with the Axis.

If Chile should join her 19 sister republics in the continental solidarity front, Argentina would be left alone as the only American nation on friendly terms with the Axis.

A large segment of Chilean opinion is ardently anti-Axis and some political leaders who have been campaigning for a break predict that it now is inevitable—perhaps even before Rios starts out in mid-October as President Roosevelt's invited guest.

Nazis Admit Error About U.S.S. Wasp

Now Say British Carrier Was Hit Instead of American Craft.

BULLETIN

RIO DE JANEIRO —(U.P.)— Unofficial reports circulated today that a German surface raider operating in the South Atlantic either has been captured or is close to being surrounded by pursuing forces.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) —(AP)— The German high command corrected its report of Aug. 13, that the 14,700-ton United States aircraft carrier Wasp had been hit by six bombs and set afire in the Mediterranean and said the damaged warship instead was a British aircraft carrier of the Illustrious type.

The correction was made in a special bulletin describing results of the Mediterranean convoy battle in which the high command listed 15 merchant ships totaling about 180,000 tons, the British aircraft carrier Eagle, two cruisers and three destroyers as sunk. The convoy was made up of 21 merchant ships, the announcement said.

(There was no explanation for the previous report that the Wasp had been damaged by six bomb hits and was trying to reach Malta.)

Of the remainder, it said, several reached Malta, including some which were damaged.

(There is no confirmation of this Axis claim which, in itself, is a drastic scaling down of previous reports from Berlin and Rome. The British have confirmed only the loss of the Eagle and one of the two claimed cruisers, the 9,400-ton Manchester.)

Rome broadcasts said, however, another United Nations destroyer had been sunk and three more vessels damaged—two cruisers and a battleship—in continuing attacks on a British convoy in the Mediterranean.

LONDON — The Island of Rhodes, in the Aegean sea, was subjected to a 12-minute bombardment early Thursday morning by a British naval squadron, it was disclosed today by a special Reuters (British) news agency correspondent with the British fleet.

The naval action followed by a day of heavy RAF attack on the island.

The bombardment was said to have been carried out with perfect timing and the squadron caught Italian forces by surprise as they sailed into position to let loose their slavoes.

The four-page, five column paper, measuring 12 by 15 inches, was described by company executive as "an employes' project with management sanction." He said the idea was born in the composing room but that all departments had a hand in its preparation.

NEW LANDINGS ARE CREDITED TO AMERICANS

Japs Driven From Plane Base, It Now Becomes Weapon For U. S. Attackers.

HARBOR CLAIMED, TOO

London Says Tulagi Soon Will Be Advanced Allied Base For Pacific Operations.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — United States forces have blasted the Japanese from their main air base in the Solomon islands and American landings have been made at two new points in the 800-mile long archipelago, dispatches from London disclosed today.

The naval correspondent of the Yorkshire Post, who disclosed that the American expeditionary force in the Solomons was being reinforced hours before this was announced by the navy department in Washington, reported today that the large Japanese air base on Guadalcanal island definitely has been knocked out of action.

American marines besieging the base have overrun the site, the correspondent said, and it was assumed that when appropriate repairs have been made and supplies received, it will be transformed into a United States springboard of attack in an offensive designed ultimately to drive the Japanese back to their own small islands.

New landings in the Solomons were revealed by the London Daily Mail, which reported that marines had seized Makambo and Gavutu islands, inflicting heavy casualties upon the enemy and taking prisoner thousands of Japanese.

The well-informed London Evening Star in a special Sydney dispatch said all reports there indicate Tulagi harbor soon may become an advanced Allied base.

Although furious fighting still is under way on surrounding islands, the Star said, Tulagi already is the center of all Allied activity in the area.

"There is reason to expect it will be a jumping-off place for major excursions later," the dispatch said.

"Before the fighting ends, Allied land-based aircraft will be using the air fields that the Japanese laboriously prepared."

The Star said that suggestions there already has been a clash between the biggest units of the Japanese and Allied fleets are "premature."

Seizure of the Guadalcanal air base was regarded in London as

CLEARS FIELD

Holbrook Finds No Evidence Of 'Gross Inefficiency.'

DAYTON —(INS)— "Rumors of gross inefficiency among civilian personnel at Wright field are not true," Congressman Greg Holbrook, (D-Ohio) reported today, adding that "great progress toward 100 per cent efficiency is being made."

"There has been some inefficiency among the Wright field civilian personnel," he asserted, "but there is no gross inefficiency to the point where the war effort is being jeopardized, as a few rumormongers would have us believe."

Rep. Holbrook, with army officers, conducted a probe of the alleged conditions at the huge army air force testing laboratory yesterday.

HELD IN FRAUD

Athens Widow, 27, Accused of Impersonating Navy Nurse.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Federal authorties said today that Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, 27, Athens widow, will be returned to San Diego, Calif., to face a charge of impersonating a navy nurse there in order to obtain credit for clothing.

Arrested in Athens by the FBI, she was said to have confessed to obtaining two automobile tires from the local ration board by posing as a navy nurse.

12,000 Receive 'Checks' for Fall Canning Sugar Supplies

An estimated 12,000 Richland county families made application for a supply of sugar for fall canning purposes in the two-day registration period completed yesterday, James Bailey, rationing board secretary, said today.

Bailey said that the registration was about as high as the board expected it would be and that the applications were received with very little difficulty. Three months ago, when the first canning registration was held, the central rationing office was jammed with hundreds of housewives.

Housewives registering Thursday and Friday received sugar "checks" which must be used within the next 60 days to purchase their canning sugar supply. The "checks" carried the number of pounds allowed each applicant.

Bailey said that election board workers and volunteers turned out in all 93 of the county's voting precincts and that the public "cooperated agreeably."

"I think the people appreciated the fact that they did not have to drive several miles into the city in order to get their sugar supply," said Bailey. "It not only simplified the problem but saved tires and gasoline."

Persons who did not register during the two-day sign-up must wait several days before applying until the rationing board has been able to file all applications received, according to Bailey.

State rationing headquarters announced recently that local boards would accept applications for canning sugar at any time rather than during specified periods.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: Sophie Tucker for decades has been one of the greatest pillars of show business and one of the most beloved stars on Broadway. Here is the Broadway column I asked her to write. D. K.)

Sophie Tucker Says—

Come Sept. 12, I will celebrate my 35th year in show business. It's been a long time, Dorothy. There have been disappointments, tears and woes, but in the main, they have been a wonderful 35 years. Years which have enriched me with priceless friends and memories I will always cherish. The successes I have scored in the theater shape up as unimportant when I think of the fun I've had. Laughs, Dorothy, have more value than all the gold mined.

Every once in a while I get sentimental and think back over the year and shed a tear or two. Memories are a woman's heritage. So, I hope you and your readers will forgive me if I skip through the years and live a little in the past. They say it's stylish in literary circles to always delve into the distant past. And you know Tucker, I'm always with the stylish people.

It was a little more than 35 years ago that a frightened little girl with less than $20 in her purse ran away from home to "go on the stage."

I was that girl, determined that the life of a combination waitress-dishwasher and cook of my folks' Hartford restaurant wasn't for me. I wanted to sing. It was the only happiness I got out of life. The restaurant was next door to Poli's theater, the mecca of Hartford's vaudeville, and whenever an actor on the bill came in for a quick bite, my heart stopped beating. I had thought about the stage for several years but never felt I had quite enough talent to make good. One day I was washing a tub full of dishes. I thought the restaurant was empty of customers (which it was most of the time) and began singing. When I concluded the song, I heard a thin voice yell, "Bravo". It was one of the actors in the show. He was then a newcomer. His name was Willie Howard.

To make a long story short, it was Willie's encouragement which made up my mind. That night after the restaurant was closed and my parents had gone to bed I packed my one party dress and with the aforementioned $20 sneaked down the backstairs and caught the milk train to Gotham, the land of manna, milk and honey.

It wasn't long before my $20 ran out. I got my first job at the "German Village" which was located in the 14th street district. It was a typical old fashioned saloon with singing waiters and a few specialty entertainers. My salary was the coins the customers threw at me. They liked me. In my first week I made over $200 but my back was almost broken bending down to pick up the silver.

When I had saved up $500, I quit the "German Village." I couldn't see myself singing in a saloon for the rest of my life.

I was consumed with the ambition of becoming the biggest star in show business. (Please, no cracks about my weight!) Everything I did, every move I made was in the director of stardom. I put myself in hock for many years so that I would be the best dressed woman on the stage. Even when I was making $75 a week, I wore gowns that cost me $200.

I had vowed when I ran away from home that I'd never return until I was a star. Well, my dream came true on Oct. 20, 1913. One day my manager asked me if I wanted to headline the bill at the Poli theater in Hartford. Would I? I was to get $500 a week, the highest salary I had ever earned.

I can relive it all now as if it happened yesterday. We're pulling into the station . . . I see the State Capitol . . . the gold dome shining in my eyes . . . I'm restless and nervous . . . my mind working a mile a minute . . . thinking . . . wondering . . . hoping . . . we're in the station now . . . I'm in mother's arms . . . she's weeping . . . I'm sobbing with her . . . so's Dad and Sister Ann, Brothers Phil and Moe. Happy homecoming!

Opening show, the orchestra played my entrance music, and I walked out on the stage. The lights blinded me. The audience began applauding. I waited for them to stop. They kept on. They shouted and clapped for full ten minutes. As my eyes grew accustomed to the lights, I could see my whole family sitting in the lower left box. They were smiling and applauding. My mother sat there immobile looking at the audience and accepting for me their applause. Her eyes were full of tears. So were mine.

I made a silent prayer to sing like I never did before When the show was over, the mayor came into my dressing room. He kissed me and said: "Miss Tucker, Hartford is proud of you."

I wish I could go on, Dorothy, but I'm running out of space. Thanks for letting me live in the past if even for only a few minutes.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Max Baer, everybody's pal, left the sound stage yodeling in a thunderous, horrible baritone. Full of high spirits and Maxie's usual reticence, he strolled in his undershirt over to the studio restaurant, his mammoth shoulders swaggering bare in the sun. He was, as usual, surrounded by pals including yours truly — if you've ever met Maxie you're his pal.

Coons

Scarcely anybody looked up when Maxie entered in his undershirt. He donned a loose jacket he had summoned and, inside of no more than 10 minutes, he had finished his table-hopping and settled down to eat, dividing his pals into two groups. As Maxie would say, what's life without a laugh between pals?

The tale of ex-champ Max is brief and to the point.

"Every guy's got to learn for himself," he volunteered. "A few years ago I had a chance for a five-year movie contract. I did 'The Prizefighter and the Lady' with Myrna Loy, but what a chump I was! Who's going to keep on paying a guy who's due on the set at 9 and can't be found till 1 o'clock? I had to learn the hard way. Night clubs? I used to close 'em up."

Max is a reformed character now. He gets on the set before the director, he says. He stands around and watches how they do it. He wants to be a sure-enough ham. No Romeo stuff for him, of course, not with this mugg of his, but he wants to be a big, good-natured, rough character — "a rough and lovable mugg," he describes it.

Max did some movies for Hal Roach and now his movie career is blooming into a number of things at RKO — "The Navy Comes Through," "Ladies' Day," Bombardier."

"I'm like a fighter in the preliminaries—fourth billing now. But maybe later on I get up there—third second, maybe some day first billing."

He pauses now and then for some shouted repartee with pals across the room. He rocks with laughter, for what's life without a laugh between pals?

He's got a million of 'em. Or 10,000, anyway. He keeps their names on file—names of people who have written him fan letters.

At hour's end Maxie grabbed a handful of lunch checks and started signing. Absentmindedly he wrote, "Your pal, Max Baer."

U. S. TIGHTENS CIVILIAN RAIL SHIPPING CURB

ODT Imposes Drastic New Rules on Freight Handling To Conserve Facilities.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The growing seriousness of the nation's transportation problem was emphasized today in drastic government regulations on civilian freight.

Railroads were ordered not to accept for shipment, with certain exceptions, any freight cars which are not loaded either to their marked load limit or to their full visible capacity.

The order, effective September 15, was issued by the office of defense transportation.

"The order is drastic, but war traffic conditions demand it, particularly for the most efficient use of motive power," ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman said.

Issuance of the order gave rise to speculation that restrictions on railroad passenger traffic would be the next step in ODT's efforts to keep abreast of the rising demands being placed on transportation facilities.

It was pointed out that restrictions on freight preceded rigid priority regulations on passenger travel in the case of the nation's airlines.

Although railroad motive power even now is being used close to capacity, Eastman said that the peak load was yet to come in the fall, together with unfavorable weather conditions.

Eastman pointed out that ODT must anticipate a further diversion of freight from truck lines as result of the rubber shortage and retirement of equipment that cannot be replaced.

Tank cars, flat cars and cars containing less-than-carload freight were excluded from the order's provisions.

Commodities which require refrigeration include shipments of airplanes, marine equipment, military ordnance, tools and explosives.

GO TO PARLEY

75 Legionnaires, Drum Corps To Be at Canton Meeting.

Nearly 75 Mansfield Legionnaires, including the Legion drum corps, will go to Canton tonight and Sunday morning for the annual convention of the Ohio Department of the American Legion which is expected to attract more than 100,000 persons.

The Mansfield delegation will be headed by Commander Sam Fox of the McVey post. Also attending from here will be seven delegates and the post's entire executive committee. Families of many of the Mansfield Legionnaires also plan to attend.

Convention speakers will include Gov. John W. Bricker, John McSweeney, Democratic nominee for governor, and Frank E. Samuel, national Legion adjutant from Indianapolis.

There will be a parade Sunday in which "outsiders" will be permitted to participate for the first time. The meeting will close Monday night with a ball at Myers lake park.

The Legion will decide whether members of the armed forces of this war will be permitted membership in the organization founded during the first World war.

8 VESSELS HIT WATER SUNDAY

Five To Be Launched From Same Yard Tomorrow.

PORTLAND, Me. —(AP)— Eight vessels—five of them at one shipyard—will be launched in Maine tomorrow as part of the United Nations effort to maintain supremacy on the seas.

Shipbuilding circles said that when five freighters are sent into the water at the Todd-Bath Shipbuilding corporation plant here it would be the first time that one yard had launched that many in a single day since the United States stepped up its merchant fleet program.

The quintuple launching is expected to be completed in 15 minutes. The vessels are the Ocean Wayfarer, Ocean Stranger, Ocean Traveller, Ocean Seaman and the Ocean Gallant, all emergency craft for the British ministry of shipping.

CIVIL GUARD AT PLANT KILLED

Two Men Stage Private War In Jersey; One Dead Other In Jail.

(By International News Service)

NEWARK, N. J.—A shotgun and pistol duel between two war department civilian guards in the lonely marshlands surrounding the Newark airport army reservation ending in the death of one and the jailing of the other, Newark disclosed today.

Information concerning the "private war" was meager with both military authorities and police reluctant to talk but it was determined that the exchange of volleys was witnessed by a U. S. army military policeman.

The MP, it is reported, said that the guards, Joseph Destafano, 27, of Elizabeth, carrying a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun and Dominick Defede, 28, of Newark, carrying a .32 calibre revolver, met at the end of their lonely beats and engaged in an altercation.

Destefano opened fire with his shotgun, the MP is reported to have said, and Defede replied with a shot from his revolver.

Struck just above the heart, Destefano fell to the ground. He died later in a hospital.

Following a military investigation, Defede was turned over to police for prosecution.

Fugitive Inmate Has Week of Liberty; Gets 2 More Years.

An Ohio State reformatory inmate had himself a week of freedom but it ended today when he was returned to the reformatory to serve out his sentence with two years added as punishment for his escape.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke reported that Francis Beck, 21, was brought back today from his home at St. Clairsville, following his escape last Saturday from the Sandusky Honor camp.

Beck was admitted to the reformatory on June 29, 1941, from Trumbull county where he had been arrested for carrying a concealed weapon and given a sentence of from one-to-three years.

AMERICAN STEEL MILLS BEAT JAPAN'S OUTPUT BY 12 TO 1

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Steel plants in the United States are producing about as much steel monthly as the steel industry of Japan can produce in a year, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated today.

For over a year, the total tonnage of steel ingots produced in America has averaged about 7,000,000 tons monthly, and has approached 7,400,000 tons in some months. Best available reports of Japanese steel production indicate that the total capacity of steel plants in Japan, occupied China and Manchukuo is about 7,200,000 tons per year.

Thus, Japan rates sixth among the world's steel-making nations, trailing the United States, Germany, Russia, the United Kingdom and France. The total steel capacity of the United Nations is estimated at nearly 181,000,000 tons annually, more than twice the capacity of all steel plants in Axis Europe and Japan.

Study of available statistics shows that a large portion of raw materials needed for steel making must be imported into Japan by water. Only tungsten of all the major alloying elements is available in Japan and Korea in sufficient quantities.

Mines in Japan, Korea and Manchukuo can produce only 20 per cent of the iron ore needed to keep the Japanese steel industry running at capacity, only about 20 per cent of the required manganese ore and only 10 per cent of the chromium ore requirements.

Nickel, another essential alloying metal, is not mined in Japan, Korea or Manchukuo.

MAN, WIFE HURT

Baby Escapes as Car Leaves Road, Crashes Barn.

An Ashtabula man and his wife were injured last night when their car left the highway on a curve and crashed through the wall of a barn before coming to a stop. Their 17-month-old baby was uninjured in the accident.

Treated for cuts and bruises by a Mt. Gilead physician, were Mr. and Mrs. Evan Penry of Ashtabula. Mr. Penry also received a neck injury.

The accident occurred four and one-half miles north of Mt. Gilead on U. S. Route 42, early today. Mrs. Penry, driver of the car, told state highway patrolmen that she apparently went to sleep while driving.

Patrolmen said the car, after leaving the highway, plunged through the walls of a barn owned by Mrs. Florence Snyder, Mt. Gilead R. D. 2, and came to a stop inside the barn. The car received considerable damage.

HUNT SLAYER

Police Probe Brutal Slaying in Lovers Lane.

NATIONAL PARK, N. J.—(INS)—Authorities today sought the brutal slayer of an undentified woman, about 35, whose nude and bruised body was found in a dimly-lighted "lovers' lane" scarcely 100 yards from a sentry post.

The soldier-sentry said he heard a choked scream about 10:30 p. m. and investigation disclosed the body.

FIVE ARRESTED

Three Forfeit Bonds, Fourth Fined on Speeding Counts.

Week-end motorists made U. S. route 42 a "race track" last night as state highway patrolmen arrested four drivers for speeding and another on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Three of the speeders posted $16.30 bond each and waived appearance in Mansfield municipal court. They were Fred Dingle, 24, of Union City, Pa., Miriam Friedman, 28, of Cleveland Heights and Robert Leimbach, 34, of Berlin Heights.

The other motorist arrested for speeding, Bonnie Chronis of Indianapolis, Ind., was fined $10 and costs by Police Judge Harold E. Andrews of Ashland.

Dewey G. Kane, 43, of Ashland will appear in Judge Andrews court tonight on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Patrolmen arrested Kane last night on route 42.

Up and Down THE STREET

The sport of a half-dozen juveniles was cut short last night when police put a stop to their activities after receiving a call from residents in the vicinity of Park avenue west and Linden road. Two of the offenders, aged 15 and 16, admitted to shooting at street lights with an air rifle but claimed that the two brothers who owned the rifle had gone home along with two of their associates. The one young chap was turned over to his father, the other released to go home, and all six were ordered to appear in probate court for a hearing Monday at 2:30 p. m.

Proving that it's not such a small world after all, two Mansfield women, friends since they were girls, met at a voting place in the city last Tuesday for the first time in 35 years although they had lived only seven blocks apart more than half of that time. The chance meeting was revealed today by election board officials who said one of the precinct judges at a booth got a big surprise when her "long lost" friend walked in and exclaimed: "You don't look any older than when I last saw you 35 years ago." They arranged to get together again soon to talk over all the things that had happened in 35 years. The board did not reveal the identity of the women.

A Mansfielder, who gave his name as Cloyd Pugh, today had helped restore a Kansas City hotel manager's faith in human nature by going all the way to Missouri to pay a 14-year-old hotel bill for $23. A dispatch from Kansas City said Pugh walked into the manager's office Wednesday and put $50 on his desk, $23 for the bill and $27 interest. The manager refused the interest. The manager quoted Pugh as saying that "You may not remember me, but I'm Cloyd Pugh, who owed you $23 at Marshall, Mo., 14 years ago. I'm living in Mansfield, O., now and I made a special trip to Marshall to pay you. You weren't there, but I traced you here." The manager, Frank H. Duggins, was the proprietor of a flying school in Marshall 14 years ago. He recalled that one of his students left town owing the hotel bill.

ILLNESS FATAL

Samuel Beer, Retired Building Contractor, Dies at 71.

Samuel Beer, 71, widely known retired building contractor in the Mansfield area, died early today at his home in East Mansfield after a brief illness. He retired from active business several years ago.

Born Oct. 31, 1870, near the home where he died. Mr. Beer lived his entire life in or near East Mansfield.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Amanda Beer; one son, Wilbur G. Beer, Mansfield; two daughters, Miss Helen Beer, Mansfield, and Mrs. Mabel Bird, New York City; one grandchild; four brothers, Jesse Beer, former Senior high school principal, John, Daniel, and Levi Beer, all of Mansfield, and one sister, Mrs. Callie Jones, Mansfield.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. in charge of the Apostolic Christian church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

OPA MOVES TO CHECK STEEL PROFITEERING

Cleveland Injunction Merely Scratches Surface, Say U. S. Investigators.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Swift governmental moves to stamp out a "black market" in steel, the nation's most vital war commodity, assumed major proportions today as office of price administration agents conducted investigations in at least four states.

The OPA promised that reports of investigations during the next 10 days would prove "sensational" and added that its suit filed yesterday "merely scratches the surface."

The OPA obtained a temporary injunction against Willard Markle, 72-year-old Houston, Tex., steel operator, after accusing him of charging 68 per cent in excess of ceiling prices on steel.

The governmental suit charged Markle with the illegal purchase and resale of more than 159,000 pounds of steel products. The sales were alleged to have been made to the Higgins Industries, Inc., New Orleans shipbuilding firm.

Hearing on the government's request for a permanent injunction was set for Aug. 24.

Although the transactions involved in the suit covered sales to Markle by only two concerns, at least 10 other firms were said to be involved as selling steel on the "black market" in evidence still under investigation. The group includes companies in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Houston, Dallas and Mobile, Ala.

"This case merely scratches the surface of the OPA steel market price investigation," James C. Gruener, OPA regional attorney, said. "We have widespread operations which have been carried on through Markle."

Gruener said, however, that the OPA intended to continue "an intensive investigation" until all sources of "black market" operations had been cut off.

Markle, in a Cleveland hospital for treatment, said the steel he sold was fabricated material on which he knew of no ceiling prices. He said he sold steel at "cost plus freight rate prices" and allowed only a small profit for himself.

Japs Aren't Only Rats Marines Face In Solomon Fight

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The Japs are not the only rats in the Solomons that the U. S. marines face today.

The National Geographic society reported that rats as large as cats inhabit Guadalcanal island, one of the Solomon group. To offset the rodents, the marines will find multi-colored cockatoos, parrots and other tropical birds on the island, the report said.

Guadalcanal, about the size of the state of Delaware, is 25 miles south of Tulagi. Tropical fevers have taken a heavy toll among the stolid dark-skinned Melanesians who live on the island, the Geographic society said.

'CHRISTIAN AND NON-MEMBER OF CHURCH', TOPIC

Interesting Subject to Be Discussed at Lutheran Church Sunday.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer poses an interesting question tomorrow at the First Lutheran church when he preaches on the subject, "Is a Non-Church Member a Christian?" at the 8 p. m. vesper service.

Appropriate music for the service will be sung by the choir quartet. Their selections are entitled, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me" by Schnecker and "Still as the Night" by Bohn.

At the 9:45 morning service, Rev. Milton C. Johnson, assistant pastor, will use "Is Yours a Haphazard Faith?" as his sermon topic. Miss Miriam Culler will sing Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer" as the offertory solo and the choir quartet will sing "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," by Sealey.

Also listed on the church calendar are Luther league, 4 p. m. Sunday; second district, Wednesday noon at the Schrack cabin on the Millsboro road; third district, 2 p. m. Wednesday, and eighth district family picnic, 6:30 p. m. Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Yoha, South Main street road.

'Holy Quietness', To Be Sermon Topic

Rev. Edward G. Corwin will use as his subject "Holy Quietness" for tomorrow's service at the First Methodist church at 10:30 a. m.

Mrs. Eleanor Stone Smith, guest soloist, will sing "Nearer My God to Thee" by Corey, and "Prayer" by Fox. Mrs. Elsie Ireland, organist, will play the prelude, "A Midsummer Idyl," by Warner.

Youth Bible study will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. to study the Book of Jonah, with Maxine Hartmann as leader.

Circle meetings on Thursday include Circle One, meeting at the home of Mrs. B. G. Campbell, 669 Harter avenue, for a covered-dish dinner at 12:30 p. m.; Circle Three, sponsoring a picnic dinner at noon at the home of Mrs. H. J. Seevers, R. D. 4; Circle Three, meeting at the home of Mrs. G. W. Griswold, 105 Dawson avenue at 2:30 p. m.; and Circle Four, meeting for a covered-dish luncheon at the L. D. Bower cottage at 12:30 p. m.

Loudonville Pastor To Give Sermon

Rev. D. E. Miller of Loudonville will be guest minister tomorrow during the 10:30 a. m. service at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

A quartet arrangement by Jacobs of "Brother James' Air" will be sung by Miss Evangeline Williams, Mrs. Wayne Williams, George Lake and W. E. Wygant, jr. Bunnett's "Shepherd of Eager Youth" will be sung as a duet by Muriel Morton and George Lake.

Lawrence Frank's organ selections will include "Prelude In G Minor" by Mendelssohn, "Andante In G" by Anding and "Risoluto" by Parker.

The only event scheduled for next week's calendar is the regular 7:30 p. m. prayer meeting Thursday, in charge of the Men's Bible class.

Vacation Bible School To Open

The annual daily vacation bible school of the Grace Episcopal church will open its doors Monday at 9:30 a. m. Brief worship services will be held preceding special instruction in making stainglass windows and religious articles.

Last year, children attending the school learned how to make Indian drums, tepees, rattles, bowls, war bonnets and other Indian relics.

The school will be conducted every week-end from Monday through Wednesday, Aug. 26. Members or non-members of the church school have been invited to attend.

Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, rector of the church, will preach on "The Objective of Christian Warfare," the fourth in a series of sermons on "Being a Christian Soldier."

Richard Wright, a vocal student at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, will sing "The Publican," by Vandevater, as an offertory anthem. Miss Louise Krause will present organ solos and direct the choir.

Christian Church Services Listed

Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of the South Main street Evangelical church, will be guest preacher at the First Christian church during the 9 a. m. worship service. Mrs. H. H. Clingan, organist, will play "Chorale-Prayer" from Goellmann's "Gothic Suite."

Eight members of the church will go to Westerville next week for the adult conference of the Christian churches of Ohio, August 17-22. They are Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bemiller, Mrs. S. D. Buchter, Mrs. J. D. Wilcox, Miss Jean Shively, and Mrs. O. F. Shively.

Services Listed For St. Paul's Church

Basing his sermon on the first portion of the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians, Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will preach Sunday at 10:30 a. m. on the subject, "Our Resurrection Faith."

Two advanced groups of the children of the church will study during the worship period. In addition to the choir anthem and organ numbers, Rev. Gilbert will sing, "The Publican," by Van de Water.

Harold Loesch will address the adult Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. using as his topic, "Lutheran Welfare Work."

The Thursday Nighters, senior young people's group, will hold a supper and outing at Seltzer park, Shelby, Thursday at 6:30 p. m. Plans are under the direction of Helen and Marguerite Boyer, Katherine Miller, and O. S. Bollman. The Mary Elizabeth class will hold a weiner roast supper Thursday at 6 p. m. with Hazel Donelson, 590 Garfield place, in charge. The choir will rehearse Friday at 7 p. m. Women of the church will sew at the Red Cross rooms Friday.

Chaplain To Be Guest Pastor

In the absence of Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, Rev. Martin L. Wappner, chaplain of the Ohio State reformatory, will deliver the sermon during the regular worship service tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

The musical portion of the service will be highlighted by a vocal duet selection sung by Mrs. Madelene Schneider and Mrs. Norma Fraley. They will sing "Hark, Hark, My Soul" by Rockwell.

Rev. Wappner will also return to preach Sunday, Aug. 23. The following Sunday, August 30, Frederick Haag, Mansfield ministerial student at Eden Theological seminary in St. Louis, Mo., will give the sermon.

During the month of August a new program of Sunday school work is being tried out by the Council of Sunday School Superintendents in which all senior and adult classes are combined and taught by one teacher. Mrs. W. Turner of the First Presbyterian church is guest teacher tomorrow.

The only meeting scheduled for next week is the regular bi-weekly session of the St. John' Ladies' Guild at 2 p. m., Thursday, in charge of Miss Bertha Ruess.

Lesson-Sermon To Be On Topic 'Soul'

"Soul" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday. It will have for the Golden Text: "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord: it shall rejoice in his salvation" (Psalms 35:9).

Included in the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon are the following correlative passages from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David" (Isaiah 55:3).

Starts Regular Church Services

Having recently acquired a new location, members of the Evangelical Friendly Mission church announced the beginning of regular Sunday school and church services tomorrow.

Sunday school is to be held at 9:15 a. m., followed by the worship service at 10:30 a. m. W. G. Brunk is pastor of the church, located at 15 Hedges street.

Dedication ceremonies for the new church were conducted last Sunday by Rev. David Fetter, Evangelical Lutheran minister of Columbus.

'Humility' To Be Sermon Subject

Basing his sermon on the Scriptural text, Luke 18, 9-14, Rev. C. A. Portz will preach on "Humility" tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. at St. Mark's Lutheran church.

During the adult service the children of the church will conduct their own worship in the Primary department rooms.

HIKES 20 MILES

BAKER, Ore.—(U.P.)—Ton Wonch of a local mining camp was inducted by the army under selective service. Young Wonch, brother of Baker county's first draftee, heard that a group was being inducted, so he hiked 20 miles to a highway, then hitchhiked to town in time to be sent with the group that night.

The rivers and streams of the Province of Quebec abound in black bass, speckled trout, grey trout, ouananiche, dore, and northern pike. Probably the most prized fish of all is the Atlantic Salmon.

a major stroke. More than any other in the Solomon group, this flat, lightly-wooded island is ideal for aerial operations and the base established by the Japanese is believed fully capable of accommodating the largest bombers in the United Nations arsenal.

While the immediate objective of the American-initiated offensive was seizure of the great harbor of Tulagi, which Admiral Jellicoe once said could be made to accommodate the world's fleets, the Guadalcanal airport was also a coveted prize.

Dispatches from the Far Pacific already have said that the Japanese fleet has been driven out of Tulagi harbor and is forced to fight at a disadvantage away from its base.

The Yorkshire Post's correspondent said that Japanese ground forces at other points on Guadalcanal and elsewhere in the Solomons have been driven into "harmless positions" and are fighting to avoid capture.

The pressure of Allied attacks, spearheaded by United States Marines and units of the American Pacific fleet, has swung to the bigger islands in the group northeast of Australia and the scope of operations is being widened.

The campaign will be a protracted one, he said, as the Japanese are resisting stubbornly.

Enemy air attacks against entrenched American forces continue relentlessly, the correspondent related, but interference by Japanese naval units ended when the fleet was driven from Tulagi.

Battle Convoy On Way To Solomons

GEN. DOUGLAS M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — (INS)—Allied fliers operating from Australia bases battled today against both Japanese Zero fighters and unfavorable weather in an effort to knock out an enemy convoy seeking to reach the Solomon islands with reinforcements.

A second severe pounding was administered to the Jap convoy yesterday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed in a communique, as the enemy warships and transports moved eastward from the vicinity of New Guinea.

Poor visibility due to bad weather conditions prevented observation of results of yesterday's attack and of the initial attack on the convoy made three waves Thursday by both flying fortress planes and medium bombers.

That the Jap warships and transports had made some headway was disclosed by the announcement that Friday's attack by heavy bombers was made off New Britain island. The three-wave assault was carried out while the convoy was steaming closer to New Guinea.

Whether any of the Jap ships were missing from the formation as it was constituted Thursday was not determined.

Little word reached headquarters here concerning the engagement in the Solomons.

Vichy Radio Tells Of Airdrome's Fall

VICHY—(INS)—The German-controlled Vichy radio today broadcast an admission that United States forces have captured an unidentified airdrome in the Solomon Islands.

Supplies Go Through To Island Attackers

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Vital supply lines to American marines tightening their grip on the Solomon islands were kept open today by the U. S. navy, backed by long-ranging army and Australian airmen.

The leathernecks who are "satisfactorily" consolidating shore positions wrested from the Japanese in the Tulagi battle area are being supplied—and perhaps reinforced—by Allied vessels closely guarded by American naval forces.

The navy disclosed late yesterday in a brief communique expressing satisfaction with progress of the eight day battle that U. S. warships are "protecting our lines of communication and escorting supply vessels to our occupying forces."

Military experts took this to mean that American forces have established air superiority in the area and probably an edge over the enemy in surface naval forces.

Japan Complains We Won't Talk

LONDON — (U.P.) — Axis reports admitted today that United States marines were already landing in the Solomon islands when Japanese planes first sighted them and that the marines now held positions at two points.

The reports came in German dispatches from Tokyo which were broadcast by the Berlin radio.

These evidences that the United States forces were driving toward victory were strengthened when Japan began fishing for information in a tacit confession that it did not know exactly what the American fleet was doing, what its power was and what it was going to do.

It complained that the navy remained almost completely silent whereas Japan had made a full statement. This transparent technique has been used freely by Axis powers in attempts to induce the British and the American navies to give them information which they needed.

after accomplishing its mission, fires were seen burning along the waterfront. From one area a tremendous fire could be seen and the waterfront was covered by columns of black smoke. Naval officers regarded this as testimony to the accuracy of the British gunners.

British planes cooperated in the successful action by carrying out reconnaissance flights to spot objectives and enemy guns. These planes dropped flares, apparently to better light the objectives for the eyes of the gunners.

While these planes were carrying out their mission, other planes simultaneously bombed the airdrome, thus cutting off any enemy attempt to send planes out to attack the naval squadron.

The squadron was subjected to attack by E-boats (torpedo boats) and fire from shore batteries.

All of the British warships and aircraft returned safely from the action.

U. S. Airmen Fly With RAF In Egypt Battle

CAIRO — (INS) — United States airmen have gone into action for the first time in the western desert where the Axis drive on Egypt was stopped by British imperial troops, it was officially revealed today.

The action took place yesterday and the American fighter pilots operated with RAF fighter squadrons.

The squadrons carried out a series of attacks against enemy transports, camps and gun positions.

Enemy airdromes at Fuka, El Daba and El Alamein areas were raided and during these forays, a German Messerschmitt was shot down.

URGE FARE INCREASE

DAYTON —(INS)— By a four-to-one vote, Dayton's city commission decided to ask local transportation companies to increase fares from five to six cents, with the city to get 55 per cent of the one cent increase. The city needs to raise $200,000 to meet salaries of municipal employes.

Children Carry 400 Back to Days of Music Hall, Can-Can strel show featuring William Gandert as interlocuter and Donald DiSanze and Owen Hegarty as the old-time black-face pair, McIntyre and Heath. A "Swanee Strut" by Ellen Bromfield and a bass solo, "Asleep in the Deep," by Richard Hamilton were other solo numbers on the bill.

Highlight of the performance was Tony Pastor's music hall, presided over by John Bishop as the genial "Tony," where celebrities left their table to take a bow, sing, dance and declaim. Among the striking impersonations given by the group was that of fair-haired Doris Alverson bedecked in white satin and plumes as Lillian Russell, and George Ridenour who gave an E. H. Sothern interpretation of "The Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight."

Singing waiters enlivened the scene as did the constant searching in the audience of Martha Shiplet as a little girl who climaxed her part by singing, "Father, Dear Father, Come Home with Me Now."

A group of tiny dancers from the Battin studio appeared in a miniature "can-can" number with Peggy Bayer as the ballerina. Carolyn Pifer and Jane Hodges were other dancers from the same studio.

An old-time melodrama in which the audience cheered the hero and hissed the villain ended the program with Bettie Gibson, Doris Alberson, Owen Hegarty and John Bishop playing the leading roles. The audience also joined in a community sing at several intervals during the program.

The minstrel men who also scored a hit as the singing waiters included Richard Wright, Richard Hamilton, Fritz Schenck, Don Hahne and George Lake. Mrs. Charles Anglin who coached all the singers was pianist for the occasion.

Celebrities in the cast were portrayed by the following group: "Lily Langtry," Claudia Marks; "Anna Held," Jane Hodges; "Edna Wallace Hopper," Carol Thompson; "Fay Templeton," Frankie Lane; "Blanche Ring," Joanne Solomon; "John L. Sullivan," Robert Gandert; bicycle girl, Jeannie Kroegher; lady authoress on etiquette, Bettie Gibson; "Carrie Nation," Virginia McMichael; child actress, Sally Rusk.

Others in the production were Donald DiSanze as "General Tom Thumb"; James Gandert, Phil Pendleton, Mary McConnell, Jane Rowles, Mary Anita Raklets, Bobby Butterfield, Jack Welsh, Bob Klein, Jay Herbert, Edward and Charles Huston, Ned Fort, Billy Russell, Jimmy Rusk and Johnny Fernyak, Natie Natalie Carr, Joyann Herbert, Judy Maxwell, June Klein, JoAnne Peppard, Antina Vaneff, Marion Edle and Nancy Quinn.

Mrs. Anglin's chorus included Eleanor Hamilton, Mary McCartney, Virginia Davis, Betty Edmonstone, Helen Anne Troll while the dancing group from the Battin studio included Carol Ann Sweet, Gilda May White, Marsha Fay Wagenhals, Ruth Sweet, Nancy Harbaugh, Sally Stoodt, Jan Chilton and Sally Lou Zeger.

A large production staff aided the organization with Mrs. O. I. Alverson heading the costume committee, Mrs. Estes Thompson, properties, and Mrs. Joy Berno, make-up. Mrs. Helen Ingram created the hats and Bob Odson donated the sound equipment. James Brownscombe and Andy Rice advised on the minstrel.

med the Germans, and held a river (presumably the Kuban), which the enemy was unable to cross in force.

No further German gains were reported in the North Caucasus, where the Germans were trying to drive three spearheads toward the Black Sea and at least one toward the oil fields of Grozny and the Caspain sea.

The Russians themselves were rushing reinforcements to the Kotelnikovski and Kletskaya fronts for an imminent, all-out struggle for Stalingrad and the Volga river, which are 45 miles from the great bend of the Don.

Red Star said the German gains near Kletskaya had been achieved by groups of 20 to 30 German tanks, attacking at intervals of several minutes.

Soviet forces occasionally counter-attacked and yesterday captured several strategic heights. Red Star warned, however, that German reinforcements were arriving and the enemy could be expected to make a supreme effort.

Dispatches said the Germans had tried to regain positions they had lost on the Voronezh front, on the upper stretches of the Don, and failed.

Time Short, U. S. General Warns

LONDON — (U.P.) — Lieut. Gen. Dwight W. Eisenhower, American commander in the European theater, said today the "time is short" for training American forces to "stand the most rigorous operations."

Eisenhower said that the American troops under his command must get the most intensive training in all phases.

"This is true," he said with emphasis, "because the time is short—because the problems we have demand the ultimate in trained personnel — because our men must be toughened and hardened physically to stand the most rigorous operations."

Eisenhower praised cooperation between the British and American forces and denied that conflict between the Royal Air Force and American air units had arisen to impede the promised bombing offensive against Europe.

ACTOR MISSING

Phillips Holmes One of Five In RCAF Collision.

WINNIPEG, Man—(INS)—Phillips Holmes, noted American stage and screen actor and a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and five other fliers were listed today among the viceims of a two-plane collision near Armstrong, Ont.

The crash occurred last Wednesday shortly after the planes took off from the Armstrong airport. Bodies of the men were ordered brought to Winnipeg, an RCAF headquarters, where officials scheduled an inquiry.

Holmes, 32, was a son of Taylor Holmes, a veteran of the American stage. A brother is RCAF Pilot Officer Ralph Holmes, husband of Libby Holman, one-time night club "torch singer," a sister is Madeline Holmes, the actress.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 15, 1942.

Drive carefully tomorrow—or soon you may not be driving at all.

According to a government booklet: "The farmer's greatest friend is the angleworm"—which seems a rather direct slap at the politicians.

Unheard remark: "Our Saturday night parties last till 4 o'clock Sunday morning and we all get pretty well soused—but we keep very quiet as we don't want to disturb the neighbors."

Anniversary of Atlantic Charter

WHEN what has become known as "the Atlantic Charter" was formulated a year ago, the United States was not "in the war"—except to the extent of giving all possible aid to Great Britain.

Back at that time—which now seems long ago—there was still divided opinion as to the advisability of helping Russia and some people thought it was "good business" to continue shipping scrap metal to Japan. And, it will be remembered, congress was almost equally divided on the subject of extending the period of training under selective service.

Then, on December 7, came Pearl Harbor and associated attacks by Japan—and the war was on.

The United States, a peaceful nation, was unprepared for war and it sometimes seems that many people—including some administrative officials—have not yet awakened to realization of the present serious threat to this country.

Encouraging news from the Solomon islands in recent days indicates growing strength in the Far East, but the situation in Russia is far from bright; disorders in India contribute in at least a minor way to the Axis cause, and part of the fighting strength needed by the navy must be held in readiness to meet such interruptions of war production as occurred this week in Bayonne, N. J.

Reaffirmation of the principles of the Atlantic Charter, with its promise of a brighter post-war future than the world has ever known, may bring renewed determination among all loyal Americans to do their full share in helping to win the war.

It is as President Roosevelt said: "If the forces of conquest are not successfully resisted and defeated there will be no freedom for any nation."

More and More Steel Needed

THERE is a plan afoot for an organization to get at the business of recovering steel for war purposes. The idea behind it is that there must be a great deal of idle steel tied up in wholly or partly fabricated form in plants which had ordered it to make stoves, baby buggies, sewing machines, refrigerators, dishwashers and other things whose manufacture has been frozen. It is believed that over a million tons may be turned up from such sources.

Steel is developing dangerous shortages, and the season for bringing the iron ore down the lakes by water freight will come to an end before many months have passed. Any steel thus stored may well be turned to the war effort.

The demand for scrap iron grows louder. Steel must come before victory and peace. Wherever it is hiding, it must come out and go to war.

Young People are Entitled To Know

COMMON practice is to confine published biographies to worthy accomplishments of persons who have made notable attainments in some particular field—probably on the theory that inspiration is thus provided to others.

Occasionally, it seems, youth is entitled to be informed about other life stories—some of those in which consistent misbehavior, coupled with access to an unlimited amount of unearned money, spells disaster.

A fit subject for such a biography would be the 43-year-old John Duval Dodge, whose death occurred in Detroit Thursday night as the result of injuries sustained in a drunken brawl which included an attack on his wife, resisting arrest and implication in a series of "wild party" episodes.

Instead of the $150 a month allowance which his father willed to him, John received a settlement of $1,700,000 from his father's estate and entered upon a "playboy" career during which the fortune was dissipated and which has just come to a tragic end.

If, by chance, the life story of John Duval Dodge should sometime be printed, it might well be made "must" reading for boys who aspire to luxuries or pleasures made available by unearned wealth, and to parents who seek to make it "easy" for their children.

Baseball To Drop Racial Barrier

AFTER many years Negroes are finally to have a chance in professional baseball. No one has ever doubted that the race which has turned out a Jack Johnson, a Joe Louis and a Jesse Owens would make an equally good showing in other athletic activities, such as baseball. Many college nines have included brilliant Negroes, and for years the Cuban Giants, famed Negro baseball team, delighted observers with its skill. There is a Negro National league, whose teams have ardent followers. Yet till now professional ball has maintained a silent bar against the race.

Now the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League announce that three Negro stars will receive try-outs in September—Catcher Roy Camoanella and Second Baseman Sam Hughes of the Baltimore Elite Giants, and Pitcher Dave Barnhill of the New York Cubans.

Once the barrier is down, it is likely to stay down. Many teams have eyed with envy Satchel Page, a Negro pitcher who apparently ranks with Mathewson and Johnson. He himself says that he is making more money out of special tours. However, with good ballplayers flocking into the army, and the race bar down, some team may yet make Page an offer that will attract him.

And so opens a new chapter in professional baseball.

'Smatter with kids nowadays? Nothing. They're emulating Little Orphan Annie by organizing a commando outfit in every neighborhood.

Congressman Ham Fish won such an easy victory in New York that it may be concluded there is something in a name, after all.

Nobody even mentions a "sixth cousin, once removed" unless he attains unusual prominence.

WHAT'S HOLDING UP THAT SECOND FRONT?

Rubber Shortage or No Shortage

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—In these wartimes it's understandable that there should be shortages of certain raw materials. For instance we could run shy on wool to transform into next winter's clothes, alike for soldiers' uniforms and for civilians' raiment. Probably it would develop rather gradually. At first it might take a pretty thorough investigation to prove whether or not it was coming. After it was right on top of us, though, it wouldn't involve much of a quiz to inform us of it, or, contrariwise, to assure us that there was no such thing.

Bernard Baruch

If you needed some new suitings and the tailor handed 'em out as usual, it would be your natural conclusion that no scarcity existed. If you couldn't get 'em and had to keep on wearing your old threadbare duds, you'd realize that, unquestionably, you were in a shortage's midst.

Congress wouldn't have to create a commission to probe the problem and advise you which answer was which.

Well, why isn't that true of rubber, too? It's not.

A few weeks ago it was announced that supplies of the raw gum were about played out. It was explained that the stuff had been coming from the Dutch East Indies, and that the Japs, largely in control there, had corked it up. Both militarily and civilly, this was a serious matter. It initiated a rationing rampage and a campaign for synthetic goo that have been going on ever since.

Stories of the alleged shortage surprised me at the time they broke loose, for I could remember when we imported plenty of rubber from other sources than the Dutch East Indies. Why didn't we go back to THEM?—I wondered.

Wondered.

Still, I was no authority on the subject, so I just wondered; that was all.

But a few days later several experts started being heard from. "Fooey!" they said. "We've got rubber aplenty, can get more 'ad-lib' and can produce it on into infinity, synthetically, from our own crops."

Maybe "ersatz" rubber isn't as good as the real thing, from trees, but the experts say it's okay.

The alarmists immediately answered that their opponents were seditionists, at least trying to crab our rubber necessities, or that, at any rate, they were endeavoring to hike prices for the stocks they had on hand and hoped to boost the market, with their "phoney" stuff.

Their critics, they charged, consisted of four big rubber monopolies that are attempting to gobble business, not only while the war lasts, but forever. Their scheme, it's maintained, is to get richer than Croesus out of wartime sales, and then to hang onto the synthetic game forever afterward.

The controversy isn't settled. It hangs on.

It may be an economic argument eventually, but it's nationalistic and patriotic just now.

Baruch Has the Job.

Bernard M. Baruch is going to settle it now.

Bernard, on the strength of his record as chairman of the last conflict's War Industries board, is chosen to render the decision.

Baruch rates, in his line, as something comparable to George Washington in his.

Rubber isn't the only raw material he's asked to rule on.

That, however, is the principle puzzle.

Yet, isn't it a curiosity?

Have we a shortage of rubber?

We have or we haven't. Experts say "Yes." Experts say "No."

You can guess between 'em.

And it takes Barney Baruch to decide it

Those War Marriages

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

REMEMBER that incendiary bomb we heaved lately based on Collier's article concerning war marriages? Did it start something? You should see my desk! Hundreds of letters. Most of them blasting me because I won't double for Cupid and urge wholesale bargains in wedding veils.

Well, I didn't and I won't. I believe this war marriage epidemic is one of the pestiest problems we have to face today and apt to cause a grievous and lingering problem in the post war period.

In cases where couples have known each other long and well and are willing to assume the burden of separation and loneliness, such unions may work. Though, even then, I wouldn't want to bet my hard earned cash on them. But where such marriages are inspired by the gleam of gold braid, the glow of adventure and the glamour of passion I firmly believe they haven't one chance in a thousand of success.

For lasting marriage is not founded on emotion. Emotion is merely the come-on . . . though a mighty effective one, I'll admit. But the force that keeps a union going is something else again. A far from glamorous something else.

Your parents and mine knew what it took to hold a family or a nation together. They knew that marriage wasn't just "a happy ending" but an extremely tough beginning on a long and arduous trail. Marriage wasn't sealed by a gay fiesta nor even by a sacred blessing. It was sealed by daily and hourly sharing through the years—sharing of hope and disappointment, delight and drudgery, fear and faith.

MARRIAGE ISN'T MADE IN HEAVEN. IT'S JUST STARTED THERE—AND YOU HAVE TO TACKLE A LOT OF HELLS IF YOU WISH TO KEEP IT A GOING BUSINESS.

Hells of poverty and tragedy, dissolution and discontent, irritation and mutual cussedness. For marriage doesn't mean just living together—it means growing together . . . with little tykes, chances are, being moulded and menaced by your brawls and blunders.

Marriage means making history . . . weaving a new and better pattern for human life . . . climbing out of your own narrow, personal trail to wider and greater horizons. And you can't do that by donning a lace negligee or dancing at a night spot.

"Those whom God hath joined together"—how easily we repeat those words under the tingling excitement of hurried wedlock with the great guns roaring in the distance. But there's no guarantee that God will join any souls together with a snap of His fingers. Marriage is a consecration—but it's also a dedication to a lifelong headache. And it takes a mighty lot of loving to make any couple bear that strain.

All of which boils down to this—war-time marriages may look lovely on the society page but they are apt to be an A-1 flop when the gold braid has been ordered overseas and the bride settles down to live life without a daily date.

Then they'll both discover, to their increasing surprise and horror, that marriage isn't a matter of romance or adventure—that it demands, especially of modern youth, a closer and deeper bond. That bond came naturally in our grandfather's time. There were babies to be born . . . fields to be sown . . . varmints to be killed . . . homely chores to be shared, and these things bound them close through their very hardship and responsibility. They were the continuation of the marriage vow . . . God welding two souls into one.

But war marriage? Nine times out of ten it's rose tinged excitement—whoopy adventure—and a dismal failure. Don't tackle it or any other marriage unless you're ripe and ready to take life on the chin—together.

Timely Editorial

Married Teachers May Return.

An old bugaboo of the depression period is about to be eliminated by the war.

The question of whether married women should teach school will probably be answered by the fact that in this day of scarcity of almost every skill, teachers married or single will be welcomed into the schools which once banned the married woman on the illogical ground that she, presumably being supported by her husband, didn't need the job nearly as much as a single woman dependent on her own efforts for a livelihood.

The only pertinent question that can possibly be considered in the matter of the fitness of teachers is whether they are qualified to teach.

Their economic status means nothing, when the child's right to the best teaching talent that is available is paramount.

Married teachers—single teachers—their first and only qualification to continue in their profession is the degree of their ability. —Columbus Dispatch.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Allies Open Offensive In Pacific With Assault on Solomon Islands

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

FROM the Japanese some two weeks ago came boasts that their hold on the Solomon islands had left Australia "isolated," that Allied forces numbering some "300,000 troops and 500 planes" hardly could be expected to defend the Down Under continent.

There was admitted concern in Australia over growing Japanese might in those mountainous islands north of the Coral sea, but there was no immediate answer to the Nipponese boast.

Only a few days later, though, roaring planes and mighty warships were blasting out an answer while hard-fighting marines scrambled ashore in the mountainous Solomons to make the answer stick.

It was the first attempt at a step on the long road back against the Japanese, the first major offensive gesture in the Pacific since Pearl Harbor.

Chief targets of the long-planned, complicated undertaking were Tulagi, where the Japanese enjoyed a vast harbor for operations against the Allied nations' lifeline to Australia, and Guadalcanal, one of the few islands in the Solomon group suitable for an airfield of any size.

Aerial Support.

But while naval forces and the landing units concentrated on those objectives, warplanes under the direction of General MacArthur pounded unmercifully at other points from which the Japanese might have expected land-based aerial striking power.

Rabaul on New Britain, the junction point of the Japanese aerial lifeline to New Guinea and the Coral Sea area, took a terrific pounding, and in New Guinea, Salamaua was a prize target.

Americans at home knew little at first of what was going on in the far-away Pacific, doped out for themselves though that it was a major offensive operation and not a hit-and-run affair when early navy communiques announced that "forces of the U. S. Pacific fleet" were participating.

The description had been merely "task force" back in February when the navy slammed away at Marshall and Gilbert Islands, the same in the attack on Wake and Marcus Islands and in the Tulagi raid preceding the battle of the Coral Sea.

Later they learned that invasion units had battled their way ashore and were broadening their toeholds. But communications systems of attacking forces under the immediate direction of Vice Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley were too busy with the business at hand to let the people outside know how the business at hand was proceeding.

'New Twists.'

From the navy in Washington, though, came some interesting statements: (1) that invasion forces trained in "new twists to the business of killing Japs" were at work in the Solomons, and (2) that "the marines have opened the door to an Allied offensive in the South Pacific."

Naval authorities pointed out that the Solomons attack was no spur of the moment affair, explained that it was the result of a carefully planned campaign which has been on the fire for months.

Readers at home weren't the only persons tickled by the news. From China came gleeful comments and in Australia the tension was lifted.

Tempering the good news that at least the United Nations had begun to strike back in an attempted offensive was the warning from Admiral King in Washington. Said he:

"It should be understood that the operation now under way is one of the most complicated and difficult in warfare. Considerable losses, such as are inherent in any offensive operation, must be expected as the price to be paid for the hard-won experience which is essential to the attainment of far-reaching results."

Quotes

Secretary of the Navy Knox: "We have Valley Forge ahead of us, but at the end of the bloody trail from Valley Forge will be Yorktown, where the enemy surrenders."

Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, jr., chief of ordnance, army services of supply: "Warfare means killing. No soldier can kill day after day unless he hates the enemy. No civilian in war production can produce his utmost unless he hates the enemy. Since childhood we've all been taught to hate evil. If our enemies are not the embodiment of evil, they'll certainly pass as reasonable facsimiles."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Daredevil Bruffy is a man who craves to be different. He has an act that he is reasonably sure no one will emulate. He hangs himself. That's his hobby.

One day he decided to build himself a gymnasium in his basement. This he did, equipping it with saddles, rings, trapezes and swinging bars . . . He developed his arms and leg muscles . . . He got strong all over. Then, to stave off boredoom, Daredevil Bruffy decided it would be a good idea to develop his neck muscles, hitch a noose around his Adam's apple, and see how long he could swing.

THAT'S his racket today . . . He hangs himself, and by the postcard pictures he gives away of himself it looks on the level . . . It wasn't until the other day that he came in for a turn on Dave Elman's Hobby Lobby program. They thought it would be a pretty good stunt—a hanging—right on the program . . . When the rehearsals were called the Daredevil adjusted the noose, climbed up on the little ladder that is a part of the act, and stepped off into space . . . Usually, when he has stood as much as he can stand, he steps back up on the ladder. . . . On this day he wore a new pair of slippers, and the soles were slippery. Daredevil Bruffy made one pass at the ladder with his shiny new slippers — and slipped. He was just hanging there. Somebody suddenly noticed that the daredevil's face was beginning to turn black . . . Somebody else screamed, and while a third somebody lifted him up, thereby taking the weight off the daredevil's well-developed but sorely tried neck muscles, a fourth somebody set the ladder under the daredevil, and he came out of the aerial dance a little shaken but none the worse. He had, he admitted, lost consciousness for a moment . . . "But that's nothing," he cried, "just a slip . . . It's these new slippers . . . I'll get my old slippers."

But Dave Elman of Hobby Lobby was shaking his head.

The sponsors wouldn't stand for it. Suppose something went wrong and Daredevil Bruffy hanged himself for keeps right there on the air. They couldn't take that chance.

* * *

BUT I want to hang on Hobby Lobby," screamed the daredevil. "I want to hang myself before all these people, and I want to have my picture taken hanging on your program."

Dr. Elman was adamant.

Though his own photographers were present, he thought it necessary to refuse their services. He didn't want Daredevil Bruffy adjusting that noose around his noggin again—not in his studios at least.

"I'm sorry," he said. "We simply cannot take the chance."

It was a disappointed daredevil who coiled his noose, picked up his ladder, and slowly ambled out into the street.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Mark 12:31.

At Home

Wartime Vote.

Straws in Tuesday's political wind blew hot and cold on the nation's domestic "second front" issue. And they proved the truth of these political axioms:

1. It's dangerous to try to guess what the voters will do during wartime.

2. Independent voters throw words but little weight in primaries; it's the organization vote that counts then.

3. Outsiders coming into an election district to beat a home-town boy invariably do him more good than harm, regardless of the issues.

The homegrown second front issue—pre-Pearl Harbor isolationism vs. pre-Pearl Harbor interventionism—got its first workout up the Hudson river in New York's Orange, Putnam and Dutchess counties, home district of President Roosevelt.

The president, Wendell Willkie and even Thomas E. Dewey, organization GOP choice for New York's governor, couldn't persuade the home folks and the local Republican organization to turn Rep. Hamilton Fish out. He beat a field of three candidates by a three-to-one vote.

Wartime Justice.

"I'm glad," said the gray-haired mother of one son in the army, another in the navy. "They wouldn't have waited so long over there."

Her remark broke the silence of a crowd gathered before the District of Columbia jail as the president announced the death of six Nazi saboteurs in the electric chair behind the grim walls.

Typical to reaction over most of the country was her remark. Some persons, though, wondered why two had been spared the death penalty, heard from Attorney Francis Biddle that those two had "helped considerably" in preparing the case against the others landed with them from German submarines.

Meanwhile, FBI agents pressed their investigation of suspicious persons, rounded up enemy aliens in New York and other cities.

Christmas News.

Outdoing even the department stores in looking ahead toward December 25, the war department warned the public that the mailing date for Christmas gifts to soldiers overseas is not far off.

Holiday packages, cards and letters, said officials, must be mailed in October to reach service men in foreign posts; Nov. 1 "very likely" will be too late. Other regulations: No package more than 11 pounds, longer than 18 inches or more than 42 inches in length and girth combined; no more than one package a week may be mailed by any one person.

Abroad

Violence In India.

"Passive civil disobedience" was what be-sheeted, scrawny Mohandas Gandhi had asked of the some 250 million Hindus he claims as followers.

What he got was a surge of violence that threatened to match the bloodiest results of previous passive resistance campaigns. And while the 72-year-old leader of the All-India Congress party squatted on his haunches in internment in the fabulous Aga Khan palace, casualty lists soared to sickening heights.

There were signs that Gandhi's newest move for independence from British rule, and his subsequent arrest by British authorities, might cause a full-scale outbreak of threatened communal wars between the Hindus and the powerful Moslem minority numbering some 80 million Indians.

* * *

R. A. F. Keeps Punching.

With second front talk spurred again by the arrival of fresh A.E.F. troops in London, the R.A.F. kept banging away in raids which could easily be interpreted as softening-up blows for an invasion.

Typical raid-of-the-week was a 250 to 400 plane attack on Mainz, railway center and river port at the junction of the Rhine and Main rivers. But second front boosters were most impressed by the fact that those raiders also worked on Coblenz, docks at Havre, France, and airfields in the Low Countries.

Focke-Wulf Lowdown.

Britishers watched the German Focke-Wulf fighter zip around unconcernedly above their heads, wondered at the RAF insignia it bore.

Later they learned that it was a captured plane, forced down and captured on the south coast before it could be destroyed. A British pilot had been putting it through its paces to learn what he could about the Germans' newest, trimmest fighter.

He learned (1) that it is slower (375mph.) than such British fighters as the Spitfire, (2) that it is most efficient at 18,000 feet, and (3) that starting at 17,500 feet it can climb 3,280 feet in a minute. Its maximum ceiling was not disclosed.

In Short

Sentenced: William Dudley Pelley, founder and leader of the Silver Shirts of America, to 15 years in prison after his conviction on charges of sedition.

Scheduled: For mid-September advances in food prices to relieve a price "squeeze" on hundreds of items. Until the new formula is fixed, warned OPA chief Leon Henderson, the March maximum must remain as the ceiling price.

Buried: 12 men when a warehouse collapsed in Wauwatosa, Milwaukee suburb. The warehouse had been leased by a brewing company to store empty beer cases.

Reorganized: By the navy, its top policy advisory agency, the general board, with Admiral Arthur Japy Hepburn, one-time commander-in-chief of the fleet, as chairman.

ASHLAND MAN ACCUSED OF CYCLE THEFTS

Galion Police Say Suspect Sold Two Cycles, Sent Others by Rail.

GALION — Successfullly closing a wave of bicycle thefts in Galion, the local police department announced Friday that Roger Pence of Ashland, has been apprehended at his home there, and has admitted to the theft of four bicycles.

According to police Pence took the four bicycles, sold two to local men, and then shipped the other two to Ashland by rail, where he sold the third to a hardware merchant. The fourth bicycle was still in Pence's possession when he was apprehended.

Owners of the stolen Galion bicycles were Dorothy Stowe, 418 North Market street; Mrs. Walter Burch, 438 Harding Way West; Cecelia Smothers, route 1, Galion; and David Gay, 420 North Columbus street.

Pence was arrested yesterday by Ashland police upon the request of the Galion department. Galion police said yesterday that a stranger who contacted two residents in selling them cycles had shown them social security cards bearing Pence's name.

Police in neighboring cities were contacted by radio and a description of the suspect was sent them. Similar theft waves have been reported in Mansfield and other nearby cities. Police from those cities were checking with Galion authorities today to learn if Pence was connected with their thefts.

Zitzer Music Store Introduced City's 1st Victrola, Player Piano

1922 Opening Was Social Event for City's Residents.

A familiar name in Mansfield music and merchandising circles for the past 24 years is that of Charles M. Zitzer, proprietor of the Zitzer Music store, 41 East Fourth street.

Today the Zitzer store has available all types of modern electrical appliances to lighten housework and to make Mansfield homes more comfortable.

Back in January, 1922, when the first store which Zitzer opened by himself after being associated with others, it was not only a business opening, it was a social event.

The Mansfield News of Friday, Jan. 27, 1922, described the opening of Zitzer's store as follows:

"Two thousand persons attended the grand opening of the new music store of Charles M. Zitzer, 35 North Main street, last evening. At no time during the event was there space to accommodate all who desired to view the store while hundreds slowly moved, shoulder to shoulder, as a body toward the Walnut street exit, the waiting crowds at the Main street entrance gradually worked into the store."

Imagine an opening in Mansfield like that today!

Yuncker's orchestra played for that grand opening of Zitzer's store, the fifth in a list of openings held in the past 24 years.

"Vocal numbers by Professor R. A. Chubb and Eddie Fisher were high spots in the evening program," said the Mansfield News. "Not only was this the most largely attended opening in Mansfield in many years but music dealers and officials of the various talking machine companies who came here to witness the event, pronounced the store to be the most up-to-date in the entire state."

Shown above is the interior of the Zitzer Music Store, at 41 East Fourth street which handles an extensive line of electrical appliances. When Zitzer held a grand opening of his store in 1922, thousands of Mansfielders flocked to it.

Zitzer first entered the merchandising line in 1908 when he became a partner of I. S. Donnell, local attorney, who took over the operation of a general store where the Tucker Furniture store is now located at 170 North Main street.

Zitzer had been reading law with Donnell but became interested in the old line of phonographs and the old-fashioned horn and cylinder records which were taken over from A. D. Hines, who started the store in 1906.

The store had been known as the "Chicago Music and Novelty company" but then changed its name to Donnell and Zitzer. At the same time, the store was moved to 162 North Main street.

Victors, Edisons, and various other pioneer phonographs were featured by the store. It was the time of the postcard craze and post cards formed no small part of the business of the establishment.

Zitzer used to have a horse and buggy carry phonographs out into the country around Mansfield to interest farmers in purchasing them.

Radical changes were made in phonographs. The first Victrola came out with a sales price of $200. It was predicted that no one in Mansfield would ever buy so expensive a phonograph.

Frank B. Black, however, proved this to be a false prediction and became the first Mansfielder to own the new type machine which did away with the big horn and cylinder records.

The store rapidly outgrew its quarters and moved several times. It has been located at 147, 110, 80, 108 and 35 North Main street and at 11, 26 and 41 East Fourth street.

Another innovation introduced to Mansfield by the Zitzer store was the player piano. First there was the player piano which operated by foot action and later one with electric control but before the player piano and phonograph could reach their height, radio swept into the field.

The Mansfield News of May 17, 1925, carried a story on Zitzer's store, which quoted the owner as saying that radio would never supplant the older instruments. The recent return of the phonograph coupled with radio bears out part of his prediction.

The present Zitzer store does not feature the music side so much as the electrical appliance field. He has on hand stocks of radios, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, electric irons and ironers and other appliances.

Because of the war, Zitzer is urging his customers to keep their present appliances in good repair. To help them, he has provided for the services of experienced servicemen.

Mansfielders needing repairs to washing machines can have the services of Joseph Yuncker, who has been with Zitzer for more than 20 years. Phil Pittenger assists Yuncker.

H. K. Painter is available for up-to-date refrigeration service while Denny Skelton repairs all radio and record-players.

SURVEY SHOWS APPLIANCES IN STOCKS AS YET

Ohio Public Service Urges Customers to Purchase While They May.

Mansfield housewives wishing to purchase new electrical appliances for their home need have no worry of a shortage at present, according to the Mansfield office of the Ohio Public Service company.

Of course, some manufacturers have discontinued several lines of merchandise and there are governmetal "freeze" orders on others but a survey of Mansfield stores made recently by the Ohio Public Service company shows that extensive choices are still available on most appliances.

There are no restrictions on the sale of any electrical appliances except electric water heaters and ranges and even these are on hand and ready for delivery to customers who really need them and have suitable wiring available.

Although no new refrigerators were found in the Ohio Public Service survey, the company advises customers to leave their orders with a dealer so he can supply them, if and when some manufacturer's stocks are released.

In time, of course, all appliance lines may be exhauseed, so the OPS urges customers to buy now while wide choices still exist.

The Ohio Public Service company made their survey of Mansfield stores to help remove an erroneous impression on the part of many housewives that no electrical appliances could be purchased at all.

The survey showed that at least 19 stores in the city still have on hand stocks of roasters, ranges, radios, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, clocks, food-mixers, ironers, hand-irons, health lamps, warming pads, curling irons, lamps, coffee makers, hot-plates, percolators, toasters and waffle irons.

Despite a peace treaty with Russia in March, 1918, the German invaders of World War 1 captured Sevastopol at the end of April of that year.

Build Coal Supply During Summer, Homeowners Told

Home owners are again being urged by the Office of Solid Fuels Coordinator to make every effort to lay in their necessary coal supplies now, and through the balance of the summer months.

By building up their supplies now home owners will be assuring themselves of protection against the possibility of a shortage next fall and winter. As the demands of the war production industries are increased, the demands on coal production and transportation facilities will grow accordingly.

At present there is an adequate supply of both, but don't rely on that condition continuing. Remember that the war production program has first call on all industry.

If you want to be assured of a plentiful supply of coal for next winter, play safe and order the necessary amount now.

"Soldier" was derived from the Latin word "solidus," meaning "a solid piece of money."

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE OF MAY MARRIAGE

Miss Eileen Heinberger and Bruce Gruneisen Were United In Ceremony at Gospel Center; Bridegroom's In Navy.

ANNOUNCEMENT is being made today of the marriage of Miss Eileen Heinberger, 514 Johns avenue, and Bruce L. Gruneisen, which was solemnized in the Gospel Center on May 2. The bride is the daughter of Clarence Heinberger, High street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gruneisen, 499 Johns avenue.

Rev. Samuel Parrott officiated for the ceremony. Louis Stambaugh played a program of nuptial music which included "Because," "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and the hymn, "Ivory Palaces." Palms and candelabra decorated the altar.

Mrs. Gruneisen was attired in a pink afternoon dress with a lace top. Her accessories were white and she had a corsage of gardenias. Miss Ellen Parrott was maid of honor and Robert Gruneisen served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Hammond high school at Hammond, Ind. She is employed by the Cleveland ordnance district at the Ohio Brass company. Mr. Gruneisen, an alumnus of Mansfield Senior high school, left Aug. 12 for service at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. He had been employed by the Empire Steel company. Mrs. Gruneisen is making her home with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Swank, at 514 Johns avenue.

August 9 Bride

Bride of August 9 was Mrs. Robert Wilkins, the former Miss Eleanor Harrison, daughter of Russell Harrison, Ashland road, who was married at the United Brethren church. Rev. James L. Boyer read the service. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilkins, Ashland road. The couple are making their home at 157½ N. Mulberry.

Garden Club Will Have Guest Tea

Hostess to 12 members and three guests of the Linnaeus Garden club was Mrs. Ray Hammer, Dixon parkway, for a dessert-luncheon yesterday. Mrs. Fred Pittman told of the many uses of the herb, camomile, for her report.

A paper on medicinal herbs was given by Mrs. F. B. Taylor. Plans for an afternoon guest tea were completed and it will be held Aug. 28 at the home of Mrs. Frank Glasgow, Cook road. Each member is to bring a guest. Concluding the meeting, Mrs. William Fisher, Red Cross chairman for the club, handed out sailor's hospital bags, which the women are to sew and fill with supplies.

Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Jenson are visiting their son, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Jensen and family in Atlanta, Ga.

Don C. Foye of Philadelphia, Pa., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Pearson.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Denton left Thursday for Lemoore, Cal.

Miss Ida Soladey of Peoria, Ill., is visiting her brother, F. R. Soladey.

* * *

Mrs. Howard Mast of Sandusky is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Loren.

Mrs. DeWitt Hunt and son of Marietta is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Griffith.

Miss Verna Hunter of Pittsburgh is a guest this week of Miss Ruth Batchelor.

Mrs. John Randolph and daughter of Lafayette, Ind., are visiting her mother, Mrs. Laura Price.

Delta Chapter Holds Meeting

Delta chapter of Tri Gamma sorority met at the home of Mrs. John Harrison, Schmitt court, Wednesday evening. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. W. C. Leonard. Fourteen members were in attendance. The business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Jack Pealer. Plans for helping a needy family were discussed by the group.

Three tables of bridge were in play and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Pealer and Mrs. Earl Herrick. Luncheon was served by the hostesses. Mrs. Frank Mengert, Taylor road, will entertain the group on Aug. 26. She will be assisted by Mrs. Lowell Moore.

TRY CHOPPED EGG

Chopped hard cooked egg and grated nippy cheese mixed with softened butter or fortified margarine add a plus value spread to a long list of nutritious fillings.

In the scrap rubber collection at New Orleans, an unused automobile tire with paper wrapping intact was donated. But it was one of the old 36 by 4 types, with pressure of 80 pounds, and it would have been hard to use it as first intended.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Reports Given at Noon Meeting of Mothers' Circle

Forty members of the Mothers' Home Circle met yesterday at North Lake park for a noon covered-dish dinner and to spend the afternoon with quilting and working carpet rags. In charge of the arrangements were Mrs. Harry Harbeson, Mrs. Dorothy Rantz and Mrs. Helen Hart. Tables were attractively decorated with flowers.

The business meeting opened with a salute to the American flag and singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Rantz led the devotionals. Conducting the business session was their president, Mrs. Irene Hines. Reports of the welfare work were given. It was announced that because of the higher cost of food, price for the dinners would be raised slightly.

Next meeting will again be at the park on Sept. 11. Hostesses for that time will be Mrs. Harry Balliet, Mrs. Jennie Brown, Mrs. Jesse Byers, Mrs. Jessie Rhoads, Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Esther Spayde.

Picnic Enjoyed By Committee At Middle Park

Nine members and five guests of the membership committee of the Women of the Moose enjoyed a picnic at Middle park Thursday evening. Guests were Mrs. Helen Perry, senior regent, Mary Frederick, Mariam Armstrong, Mrs. Katherine Armstrong and Mary Ryan.

A short business session was conducted by the chairmen, Mrs. Letha Hageman. Plans were made to sell Christmas cards and to save sales tax stamps. Proceeds will go into the committee's treasury. During the social hour prizes were won by Mrs. B. Staunton and Mrs. Hageman.

The next meeting, on Sept. 3, will be in the form of a steak fry at South park with Mrs. Nellie Morrison and Mrs. Carrie Southward as hostesses. Members are invited to play cards at the home of Mrs. Warren Baker, 203 West Park drive, after the picnic.

MAIDS OF VICTORY.

Maids of Victory met at the home of their advisor Thursday. The meeting was conducted according to usual form with 18 members and two guests present. Mr. Carmean, superintendent of their school, spoke briefly to the girls. The girls displayed their projects, which are to be judged next Wednesday. Lois Bauer discussed the flag and Patty Frizell read a poem. Kathleen McLaughlin, Mary Berry and Phylis Gore gave a report of their trip to the 4-H camp at Sleepy Hollow. Refreshments were served by Geneva Brown, Pauline Poorman and Norma Clevenger.

VARIETY IN MENUS

War workers and school children alike welcome sandwiches made from enriched bread. The good food value of this bread with its victory B-vitamins and food iron satisfies active appetites. The delicate flavor of this superior bread blends well with any kind of sandwich filling.

SANDWICH FILLING

Pureed apricots or prunes, pepped up with a suggestion of lemon juice or a bit of orange marmalade, together with smooth cream cheese make tempting fillings for sandwiches.

Exchange Vows on May 2

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce L. Gruneisen are announcing their marriage of May 2. The bride is the former Miss Eileen Heinberger, daughter of Clarence Heinberger, 308 High street. Mr. Gruneisen left Wednesday for service in the navy. He has been assigned to the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Mrs. Gruneisen is making her home with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Swank, 514 Johns avenue.

Club Women Plan To Have Picnic

Hostess to the Mansfield Garden Study club at her home on Friday was Mrs. O. H. McDaniel, 483 Shepard road. Luncheon was served to ten members and two guests, Mrs. F. R. Price and Mrs. A. J. Kinley. A paper on conservation was read by Mrs. George Hout.

Flower arrangement for the day, which was of gladioli was created by Mrs. E. C. Jenkins. Mrs. Louis Rahn presented the program topic, "Romance of the Highways." The club will have a picnic at the cabin of Mrs. L. D. Bower on Aug. 28.

MISSIONARY PICNIC.

Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church will have its annual picnic at North Lake park pavilion Wednesday noon, Aug. 19. Hostesses for the covered-dish dinner will be Mrs. J. W. Waddell and Mrs. R. D. Anderson.

TO HAVE HAY RIDE.

Youthful Youths 4-H club members met recently at the home of Mary Alice McFarland with Roberta Finley and Betty Lou Freeman serving as associate hostesses. Twenty members and one guest, Carlene Finley, were present. It was decided to hold a hay ride and wiener roast Aug. 20. Next regular meeting will be Aug. 25 with Naomi Shadel.

Mrs. Paulsen Is Guest Speaker

Miss Carolyn Wolf, 597 Park avenue west, entertained 18 members of the Buckeye Garden club at her home on Friday. Guest speaker for the occasion was Mrs. Henry J. Paulsen, member of the Linnaeus Garden club, who spoke on "Flower Arrangements." Mrs. Deming Lowry conducted the short business meeting during which the group decided to plant dogwood trees in Middle park.

Mrs. Francis O'Brian gave a horticultural report and a conservation report was given by Mrs. Thomas Siegenthaler. Luncheon was served buffet style. Mrs. Gene Zediker will be hostess at her home, 494 Russell road, for a meeting on Aug. 28.

GOETTL REUNION.

The Goettl's family will hold a reunion at Liberty park tomorrow afternoon. It will start at two o'clock with a chicken dinner. The occasion will be also to celebrate the birthday of Edward Goettl, who leaves soon for the army, and in honor of Merle Wilging, who leaves for armed services Aug. 25.

GET YOUR VITAMINS

A vitamin B sandwich filling for enriched bread is made by mixing equal amounts of peanut butter and chopped raisins with a bit of mayonnaise.

Meeting Held by Garden Club at McConnell Home

Mrs. C. V. McConnell and Mrs. C. L. Willsey entertained members of the Astowela Garden club Friday with a buffet luncheon and program at the McConnell home, 795 Woodhill road. Garden flowers centered the luncheon table.

Paper for the afternoon was entitled, "Lillies for Ohio Gardens," and was presented by Mrs. C. H. Hughes. She discussed the culture and care of lily bulbs. Plans were made for members to exhibit flowers at the "Harvest Home" in Cleveland on Sept. 23.

Mrs. Dean Rex, school garden chairman, told the club about the tour made by school children who have completed their gardens. The youngsters were taken on a pilgrimage to several outstanding Mansfield gardens, including those on the Black estate. On Aug. 28, flower arrangements will be made at the meeting. Hostesses will be Mrs. Richard Fensch and Mrs. G. E. Holland.

Shower Held for Mrs. C. Bennett

A shower was held for Mrs. Clifford Bennett, the former Miss Eleanor Miller, recently at the home of Mrs. Robert Haag, 347 West Third street, with Mrs. Glynn Bethea assisting. Prize winners for the card games were the Misses Virginia Gerke, Monoka Spurgeon, Janet Gadfield, Mary Kirkpatrick, Nora Ann Geddes and Delores Shafer.

Luncheon was served at small tables decorated in blue and rose with a centerpiece of lighted tapers. A bouquet of summer flowers centered the bride's table. Members of Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority were guests.

SWIMMING PARTY.

A swimming party and picnic supper were held recently by the Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority at Armstrong's grove. Formal installation dinner will be held Monday evening, Aug. 17.

THEATERS

Spy Comedy.

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello become involved in a bit of humorous espionage when they discover apples are radios in "Rio Rita," the Ritz attraction. The two appear as stowaways in a New York car bound for southern Texas where John Carroll is to meet his sweetheart Kathryn Grayson. The production features some of the original numbers from the stage musical by the same name and also Eros Volusia, the Brazilian dancer. Roy Rogers in "Songs of the Pioneers," with George Hayes is the second picture.

Klondike Saga.

Rex Beach's saga of the Klondike, "The Spoilers," opens Sunday at the Park with Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott and John Wayne at the head of the cast. Miss Dietrich plays the fascinating Cherry Malotte over whom two men fought to the death. Richard Barthelmess and Harry Carey are in the cast and the picture features a climatic fight scene that is as thrilling as the one in the old silent version. "Hello Annapolis," with Tom Brown and Jean Parker is the cofeature.

Dramatic Story.

Joan Fontaine and Tyrone Power make their first appearance together in Eric Knight's powerful story, "This Above All," showing at the Ohio. The actress who won the 1941 Academy Award has the role of a member of England Woman's Auxiliary Air Force while Power plays a deserter from the British army after Dunkirk. The two meet and find love while bombs rain on London. An air raid furnishes one of the thrilling scenes in the picture that features Philip Merivale and Melville Cooper.

New Leading Man.

The six-foot leading man of Gertrude Lawrence in the stage hit, "Lady in the Dark," makes his motion picture bow in Rosalind Russell's new comedy, "Take a Letter Darling," that co-stars Fred MacMurray. Macdonald Carey is the name and he plays the second male lead in the lively comedy now showing at the Madison. Miss Russell plays the beautiful career woman who hires a male secretar, to stave off jealous wives and MacMurray has the part of the secretary. Robert Benchley is in the cast. "Sweater Girl," a campus musical with Eddie Bracken is the second attraction.

Pairings Given For Westbrook Women Golfers

On Tuesday, August 18, the women of Westbrook Country club will have a match play. Hostesses for the day are Mrs. C. C. Fish and Mrs. O. C. Henkel. Pairings are as follows:

First Flight.

Mrs. Emerson Weller, Mrs. W. W. Grant; Mrs. O. C. Henkel, Mrs. E. K. Bacon; Mrs. W. A. Springer, Miss Jean Herring; Mrs. P. F. Cropper, Mrs. O. H. Schettler; Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, Mrs. T. J. Chamberlain; Mrs R. W. Stevens, Mrs. Alan Tappan; Mrs. E. R. Hartman, bye.

Second Flight.

Mrs. L. W. Olson, Mrs. Mae Perl; Mrs. Harold Balyeat, Mrs. C. V. McConnell; Mrs. J. C. Gorman, Mrs. M. W. Hieber; Mrs. P. F. Haley, Mrs L. D. Wright; Mrs. J. O. Hanley, Mrs. Harry Soulen; Mrs. J. A. Lewin, Mrs Henry Talmage.

Third Flight.

Mrs. J. H. Ashbaugh, Mrs. Wesley Carr; Miss Fae Sotherland, Mrs. Marion Ward; Mrs. Elmer Hedeen, Mrs. Lois Anson; Mrs. Frank Wendt, Mrs. T. E. Raklets; Mrs. Charles Hoffman, Mrs. D. R. Anneaux; Mrs. Paul Endriss, Mrs. Frank Maxwell; Mrs. A. L. Price, Mrs. Estes Thompson.

Colored Slides Of Flowers Seen

Twenty members of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club enjoyed a luncheon meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Oliver Henkel, 770 Andover road. The program was in charge of John H. Kullman, who showed colored slides of flowers and trees on the Raemelton farm.

Floral arrangements for the tables were made by Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. J. T. Lusignan, jr., and Mrs. Henkel. Presiding at the table was Mrs. Robert Quinn. Next meeting hostess on Aug. 28 will be Mrs. W. B. Ford, Chevy Chase road. At that time a round table discussion on "What I Have Learned In My Garden," will be led by Miss Katherine Hartman.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE WAS such poignant anguish in Ronald's voice that I knew he was beyond any comfort I could give.

So I fixed my attention on the letter, then put it down with a feeling of utter bewilderment.

"What do you think it means?" I asked.

"I haven't the faintest idea," he replied. "If only I could trust her! That's an awful thing to say about my only sister," he went on, with bitterness in his voice, "but she's fooled me so consistently about this thing, that I simply can't believe her.

"And yet," he said hopefully, "doesn't there seem a ring of truth, somehow, in her letter?"

Carolyn's Letter.

I did not believe there was enough truth in Carolyn Brixton to cover the head of a pin, but I knew I was prejudiced, and with saner judgment might find something to believe in her appeal. With that thought I read the letter again very carefully.

"Ron, Darling!" it began, "do you remember when we were little, and I used to follow you around eevrywhere? You were always the square one and I was the squirmy one, always getting into mischief and then lying my way out of it. What an awful little liar I was! But you cured me of lying, Darling Brother, and were always patient with my scrapes and helped me out of them.

"And now I'm in the worst scrape of all my life, and I'm marooned up here in college with not a soul I can talk to about it, now that Marion's gone and my brother two hundred miles away!"

Intuitively, at the words "now Marion's gone," my suspicion was revived that Carolyn's secret, whatever it might be, was responsible, in part at least, for her roomie's disappearance.

"I know you have reasoh not to believe me" the letter went on, "but honestly, Ron, I'm sorry for the whole mess—which isn't as bad as you think—and I'd like to help straighten it out if I could.

"I've always said I didn't know anything about this, but I was lying. I do, a little—not much. But maybe it would give me a starting point if I were only where I could do something.

"I can't do anything up here, and I feel like a rat in a trap, for I know I'm being watched constantly. I can sense that, though I can't lay a hand on a thing. But I don't take a breath without it's being counted and weighed, and I think sometimes I'm going crazy."

So Carolyn's shrewd, agile brain had discovered the espionage upon her, despite my father's precautions! I wondered if her plea in the next paragraph was the child of that brain or of her heart.

Her Final Plea.

"Oh, Ron, Darling Brother Mine," the letter went on, "if you could wangle it with Dad and Mums so I could come down to New York for a few days, I believe I could find out some things. I'd do my best, and then I'd be with you.

"Please, Darling, do try to manage it for your bad but loving little sister.

"Carol."

I now laid the letter down feeling it might be wise to grant this apparently hysterical request.

"There's one thing to be said in favor of Carolyn's plan," I said, and his eyes put a question, but he did not interrupt me.

"We might be able," I added, "to get a better line on the men who, we think, are trying to get in touch with her."

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, August 16.

Sunday's horospoce holds much encouragement for safe and secure conditions to further sound aims and objectives seriously developed and planned on accepted systems, with attention to details and sound principles. Initiative and enterprise should attract public and community support, although financial results may be minimized by extravagant outlay or lavish use of funds.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of opportunity for sound progress on well-planned, systematic development with persistent application and industry. But extravagance, careless or unwarranted use of finances may negative any desired results, although there may be promise of public and community support.

A child born on this day although enterprising and energetic, with sound ideas and principles, yet may be extravagant, and subject to reversals and imposition.

For Monday, August 17.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of successful and pleasant dealings with superiors, employers and those in important places or authority. Those in large corporations, secret or fraternal bodies may be disposed to entertain propositions of an intriguing, strategical or secret nature.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy happy and profitable dealings with superiors, employers and those in high authority. They should also make successful contracts with large corporations, political bodies or fraternal groups if managed with tact, strategy, shrewdness or tacit agreements. But these should be handled with a view to the clearly apparent possibilities of intrigue or subtle twists of meaning.

A child born on this day should have much stability of character and should find favor with its employers, superiors or elders.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SOME LIKE FIREWORKS

Complex methods seem to be preferred by some players, even when a simpler course of action is in sight. In a number of cases, they merely do not see the ordinary means of achieving their objective: In others it is fairly certain that they choose the fancier course for the sake of enjoying the fireworks, even in cases where that method involves greater risk than the more fundamental one.

Certainly funny bidding, especially by South, but nothing to be excited about when compared with his play. After the spade K and A took the first two tricks, East disliked every return, so chose the heart A and the 10. Then began South's fancy work. Simple figuring should have shown he could ruff out both of his spades and then run the hearts if he was going to try to squeeze East between diamonds and clubs. The heart Q on the fourth trick, a spade ruffed by the K, the diamond 7 sent to the A, the last spade ruffed by the J and then the heart 6 to the 8, followed by the 9 and 7, would have squeezed East, who could have retained only three cards and so could not possibly have protected both the third club and the diamond J.

That, however, was too simple for South. He had to build a repeated or progressive squeeze, swearing later that he did not see the other play. After winning the fourth trick with the heart Q, he ruffed one spade, but kept the 9 for his squeezing. He thereupon ran three more hearts, feeling sure he had East marked for all missing honors, from the bidding. The last heart was on the eighth trick. East could keep only five cards, so had to discard from the spade J, diamond K-Q and club Q-J-A. Between these evils, he picked the diamond Q. Thereupon the diamond A dropped his K and the J squeezed him between his spade and the three clubs. He picked a club, whereupon the dummy's three clubs finished the hand.

If East on that eighth trick had trashed a club, the third club would have squeezed him between diamonds and spades. If he had tossed the spade J, the spade 9 then would have squeezed him between clubs and diamonds.

Your Week-End Lesson.

Why is it often wise to "split your honors" and play one of them from a guarded two-card sequence such as a K-Q, Q-J or J-10, instead of playing low, when a small card is led through you by your right-hand opponent? Can you give an example of what can happen to you for your failure to do this at the right time?

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Comes a letter from Junior. That's Fred Huntsman, jr., of the Coolridge golf Huntsmans, who is now in training at Great Lakes Naval Training station.

And Junior says: "No matter where I am, I still read your Sport Podge. I can see you yet, taking that bus ride just to rest up for that long walk, packing that brown bag on your back.

"It's funny what we will do just to hit that little white ball around. And if it doesn't go where we think it should, we talk to it in such abusive language.

"I like to play golf," says Junior, "but I wouldn't trade. I'll take the navy.

"P. S.—Pardon the writing. You ought to try writing in a hammock."

Well, Junior, to match your writing in a hammock, I'll refer you to the two Sunday morning golfers who staggered clear around to the eighth green before one exploded:

"It's bad enough that my ball won't hold still. But if somebody doesn't quit rocking these greens, I'm going to slug somebody."

* * *

Also comes a postcard from Joe Lesch, former president of the Mansfield Softball association, who has just been transferred from Kelly Field, Texas, to the airfield at Sikeston, Mo.

Says Joe: Finally arrived at Primary. School starts tomorrow. How's sports? How's your golf? I think I'll play next week-end. I hope. So long."

How's my golf? Everybody wants to know how's my golf. And they know dog-gone well that what I think of my golf can't be printed.

Old Chuck Cronin's famous sore arm must be feeling better on the exercise it's getting up at Camp Perry.

Last year the Fostoria manager had trouble going past the fifth inning, or the seventh at the most, with his ailing flipper.

Pitching for the Camp Perry soldiers, Chuck recently turned in two straight no-hit, no-run games.

And in the second game, against a Lorain team, he faced just 27 batters. One got on base, but was immediately erased by a double play. Great life, this army.

Providents Open Defense of Title

AKRON —(U.P.)—The Mansfield Provident Loans, state champions for the last two years, will begin their title defense in the Ohio girls' softball tournament today meeting De Michael's of Youngstown.

* * *

De Michael's won their first game handily last night, defeating Pepsi Cola of Youngstown, 7 to 1, on Mary Hollis' five-hit pitching.

* * *

In the other first round game last night, R. Wilke Meats of Columbus won from Hi-Speeds of Madison, 3-1, when Lydia Greene hit a home run with two on base in the last inning.

Wilke will play Fink & Heine of Springfield in the second round tonight.

WILSON INJURED

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Johnny Wilson, right end for the Cleveland Rams, may be out of the line-up for the gridders' first battle it was learned today because of a bad shoulder sprain suffered during practice at Hiram, O.

Yankees Set Double Play Mark

Make 7 Twin Killings In Beating Athletics.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ARC LIGHT baseball has no greater foe than the New York Yankees, but the absence of the sun doesn't seem to bother the world champions' defensive specialty, known to the trade as the double play.

Holders of the major league record for twin killings in a season, the Yankees established a new mark for a single game last night when they completed seven while walloping the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

The old record for nine innings was six, set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1935, and tied by four other teams. The Washington Senators, only American leaguers sharing in the record, were the last to tie it in 1933.

* * *

By killing two "birds" with one play in every inning except two, the Yankees stretched their total of two-ply executions to 150 for 111 games.

With 43 games in front of them, they need only 47 more double plays to crack the record of 196 for a 154-game season which they set last year.

In another night contest, Mort Cooper hurled the St. Louis Cardials to a 4-0 decision over Cincinnati, blanking the Reds on two hits.

At New York, King Carl Hubbell tossed a four-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as the New York Giants triumphed, 5-2.

"Bean balls" were forgotten at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers walloped the Boston Braves, 10-0 and 7-3.

* * *

The Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, backing up Lon Warneke's seven-hit pitching with an 18-blow attack.

In the only other game in the American league, the Detroit Tigers triumphed, 7-1, over Chicago.

Full Entry for Tourney Expected

TOLEDO — (INS) — Capacity entries of 125 men and 50 women were expected to compete tomorrow in the 36-hole Ohio public links golf tourney. Definite entries for the 13th annual classic include defending champs Dick Rhyan of Columbus and Mrs. Thelma Linster of Mansfield.

* * *

The men's play will be over the sporty Heatherdowns club course, while the feminine contingent will compete over the Ottawa Hills fairways.

* * *

The pay-as-you-play classic was cut from its usual 72-hole route to 36 holes this year to allow war workers to compete without losing time from their jobs. Further emphasizing the war motif, all prizes will be in war bonds and stamps, and all entries of the last two tourneys now in the armed services will be mailed a carton of cigarets.

SCHOOLGIRL TAKES SWIM CHAMPIONSHIP

NEENAH, Wis.—(INS)—Miss Suzanne Zimmerman, a 17-year-old school girl, today was the new champion in the 100-meter free style event of the Women's National A. A. U. swimming and diving championships.

She won the race by a foot, outdistancing the favored Brenda Helser, defending champion and teammate from the Multnomah Athletic club in Portland, Ore. Miss Helser, winner of the qualifying heat, was third, following Marilynn Sahner of the Women's Swimming association of New York.

Fight Results

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS — Charles Burley, 160, Pittsburgh, won by technical knockout from Holman Williams, 156¾, Detroit (9).

ELIZABETH, N. Y.—Marvin Bryant, 148, Dallas, Tex., outpointed Buddy Farrell, 149, Newark (10).

WATERBURY, Conn.—Willie Roach, 130, Wilmington, Del., outpointed Matt Dougherty, 134½, Milwaukee (8).

FORT HAMILTON, N. Y.—Johnny Colan, 180½, New York, outpointed Tommy Campanella, 176, New York (8).

WARD DEFEATS HAGER IN TOURNEY UPSET

First big upset of the Westbrook Country club golf championship tournament came yesterday when Marion Ward, jr., eliminated Al Hager 5 and 4 in the third round. Hager had been classed with Bob Moorhead, former champion, as a tourney favorite, but Ward fired a two-over-par 74 at him to win the match.

In another third-round match Harold Stozen defeated H. P. Hosler 3 and 2.

State Meets Threatened

Transportation, Coaches Create School Problem.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—State scholastic sports meets may be abandoned during the war, says H. R. Townsend, Ohio high school athletic commissioner.

The Ohio High School Athletic association's board of control yesterday cancelled the Oct. 31 state cross country event and Townsend said "it looks very much like we might have to abandon all high school sports contests."

He added that the high school principals' organizations already had recommended cancellation of state debate, music, dramatic and scholarship contests and other similar events.

The athletic board will decide later about canceling the annual state track meet and basketball tournaments, Townsend asserted.

An office of defense transportation order forbids use of school buses to transport athletic teams. Schools unable to solve this problem may be forced to give up inter-scholastic sports, Townsend declared.

Other schools have no coaches, he explained, adding that there are 100-150 coaching vacancies in Ohio, principally in smaller schools.

He said the board decided to make no recommendations on this matter until Kenneth Ray, state education director, had completed a survey of coach and teacher vacancies.

Matches Go Extra Holes

Two Women's Loop Tilts Wind Up on 19th Green.

Two matches in The News-Journal women's golf league went to the 19th green yesterday at Possum Run, where Helen Straub won from Eleanor Eckert, and Irene Heaton defeated Ruth Seymour.

* * *

League-leading DeMilo Beauty salon split even with second-place Colony Recreation 2-2, while Kevey's and Bates Candies also broke even.

ELYRIA FAILS TO GET BASKETBALL COACH

ELYRIA — (U.P.) — Elyria school officials were looking for a new coach today after the New Philadelphia school board refused to release Paul Hoernemann from his present contract there.

Hoernemann was chosen as basketball and assistant football coach at Elyria high school to succeed Ralph F. Bauer, who accepted an army commission.

TAKES PACING DERBY

Detroit Tigers Hear Call to Service

In two days' time three members of the Detroit Tigers have either been called into service with Uncle Sam's forces or will answer the call shortly. Birdie Tebbetts, the No. 1 catcher, has left the team to report to his Nashua, N. H., draft board. He is in 1-A. Billy Hitchcock, shortstop, was summoned to active duty as a member of the army reserves. Charley Gehringer, the veteran infielder, will leave the team shortly for military service. He hopes to win appointment as a physical education instructor in the navy. Above, Tebbetts, left, bids goodbye to Manager Del Baker, center, as Gehringer looks on. The picture was taken in Cleveland.

Travelers Book Mt. Vernon Club

Mansfield Travelers will meet one of their strongest opponents of the season tomorrow afternoon at the Fairground diamond when they tangle with the Mt. Vernon Shellmar Products club.

Pat Patterson, whose last mound stint was a shutout victory over the Loudonville Clippers at Lakeville last Sunday, and who has one no-hit victory to his credit this season, will be on the hill for the Travelers.

The game is scheduled at 2:30 p. m.

LOCOMOTIVES PLAY AT GALION SUNDAY

Plymouth Locomotives travel to Galion tomorrow to meet the Jaycees of the Ohio State semipro baseball league at Heise park at 2 p. m.

Bob Winbigler will hurl for the Locomotives with Joe Atton behind the plate.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—When Alva Bradley handed Lou Boudreau that new contract the other day, he instructed Lou to "Sell the Indians to Cleveland." . . . No wonder Boudreau is getting 25 G's a year for the job. . . . Jack Brown of Salisbury, Md., who doesn't have a top-line horse at Roosevelt Raceway, has been in the money more than 100 times since the harness meeting started a month ago. . . . Box-office ticket sale for the Giants-All Army football game here Sept. 12 opens Monday.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

John McGill, jr., Ashland (Ky.) Daily Independent: Buddy Rosar, New York Yankee catcher who was fined $250 for leaving the club to take a Buffalo police civil service examination, was unsuccessful in his attempt to gain a position on the force. After looking at George Case's base-stealing record in the American loop, the Buffalo commission probably figured Buddy didn't 'Get his man' often enough to be a cop."

PRECIOUS PIGSKIN.

Bill Bingham, Harvard's director of athletics, is urging Coach Dick Harlow to win every game this fall so he won't have to give any precious footballs to the visiting teams. . . . "Of course, if the visiting team insists on winning despite everything that Dick and his players try," Bingham adds, "we might take a photograph of the victorious captain receiving the football and present the photo to him . . . and keep the ball."

Boys' Softball Loop Season Ends

Final games in the boys' softball league were played yesterday, and Maple Lake juniors, after failing to win a game all season, crashed through with two victories, defeating Y. M. C. A. Pros 13-7 and following up with an 8-7 verdict over Brinkerhoff.

Brinkerhoff defeated Empire Steel 7-2, and Prospect swamped Y. M. C. A. Pros 27-0.

TRAUTMAN'S SON JOINS NAVY RESERVE

COLUMBUS—(INS)—George M. Trautman, jr., son of the American association president, today entered the naval reserve preparatory school at Columbia university in anticipation of becoming a deck or an engineering officer.

Young Trautman, a Denison university athlete, will be at Columbia for a four-week basic training before assuming the title of midshipman.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS GET BASEBALL SCORES

NEW YORK—(INS)—American soldiers in the British Isles are not falling behind on baseball news.

This was disclosed by Sir Cecil G. Graves, director general of the British Broadcasting company arriving here aboard the transatlantic plane "Flying Ace" to discuss exchange radio program problems. The BBC, Sir Cecil said, is daily broadcasting baseball scores in programs directed to American troops.

Birds Regain League Lead

Race Tightens Up to Use Of Fractional Points.

(By Associated Press)

The American association flag chase, so hot that sparks fly from every game, entered the stage of splitting fractions today to determine the leaders.

Columbus regained the lead after walloping Minneapolis, 11 to 0, last night. The win gave the Birds a .536 percentage. Indianapolis, meanwhile, bounced Kansas City off the roost with a 3 to 1 verdict, while Milwaukee shaded Louisville, 3 to 2, and Toledo ran its winning streak to seven straight with a 12 to 3 conquest of St. Paul.

In the percentage column, the Blues fell to third place with 67 wins against 59 defeats for a mark of .531.7. Milwaukee took over second with 66 wins against 58 losses and a percentage of .523.3. Toledo was a strong fourth with .525.

Toledo was beaten, 3 to 2, in a nightcap exhibition with the St. Louis Browns.

Columbus clipped the Millers for their fifth straight loss as Red Munger scattered six hits for his 13th victory. He fanned nine and permitted only one runner to reach third. The Red Birds cashed in with a six run assault in the third inning.

Indians Give Grimes Chance

Need Batting Punch to Keep High Position.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— When the Indians oppose the St. Louis Browns tonight under the lights Oscar Grimes will be playing second base instead of weak-hitting Ray Mack, for the third time in a row.

Grimes has substituted before, but this time he is expected to get a real chance to show what he has. And if he can produce some batting punch he may make the keystone sack his regular stamping ground.

Manager Lou Boudreau, trying to prop his sliding Indians, needs a hitter as a desert needs rain. The Tribesmen have scored only 11 runs in their last eight contests, and have won only once.

Jeff Heath's batting average has dropped 50 points to .271 in the past four weeks and in half that time Les Fleming's has skidded 35 points to .301. The only bright spot is Ken Keltner's hitting, boosting his percentage from .270 to .293 in the past week.

Compared to the power-sluggers, Mack has not lost so much, but his current .222 is a new low and far from his average of .283 in 1940, his first full year with Cleveland.

Ben Hogan Keeps Up Runaway Pace

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (INS) — Sharp shooting Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa, seemed on the way to a runaway in the $5,000 Times-Union open golf championship today as the final 36 holes got under way. The little par-buster led the field by five strokes as a result of a startling 64-68 for the first two rounds.

His total of 132 placed him five blows ahead of Jug McSpaden, who matched Hogan's 68 yesterday for a total of 137.

Chick Harbert and Sam Byrd, former Yankee ball player, were tied at 140. Harbert matched his opening round of 70 in his second day of play. Byrd slipped from his opening 68 to 72, two above par.

Eighteen holes will be played today with the final 18 holes being contested tomorrow.

Veterans Battle For Golf Crown

CHICAGO —(AP)— A pair of veterans—Mrs. Russell Mann, 30, of Omaha, Neb., and Betty Jameson, 23, of San Antonio, Tex.—put on the show today at Sunset Ridge in the women's western amateur golf tourney.

* * *

Mrs. Mann, who has been at this business for some 15 seasons, and Miss Jameson, a veteran of 11 campaigns, went after the championship over the 36-hole route.

* * *

Mrs. Mann advanced to the championship round by defeating Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., one up. Miss Jameson's semi-final victory was at the expense of Dorothy Ellis, Indianapolis, Indiana state champion, whom she defeated 3 and 1.

Umps Still Have Best Argument

Forfeit Dayton Game When Manager Kicks.

CANTON —(AP)— Umpire-baiting H. E. "Ducky" Holmes tried one of his oratorical squeeze plays last night but it cost him $50 and his Dayton Ducks a 9 to 0 forfeit in the first game of a Mid-Atlantic doubleheader.

Still not satisfied, Holmes resumed his argument in the second game and was banished from the field as his team lost 8-2.

Umpire Bob Crouch ordered the first game forfeited and fined Holmes when the Dayton manager refused to heed his "request" to leave the field in the fifth inning. "Ducky" had protested Crouch's ruling that a grounder down the first base line was a foul. Canton was leading 2 to 0 at the time.

Holmes came back for more in the eighth inning of the nightcap and was told to get off the field. He left.

The Mid-Atlantic league almost lost its most colorful figure when Holmes decided to give up managing this spring and retire to the front office. But after the club, with Catcher Paul Chervinko in charge, stalled a notch above the cellar spot, Holmes took over again.

He won six of the next seven contests, then pushed the Ducks up to second place. Now he's trying to overhaul league-leading Charleston.

Stories about Holmes' tiffs with umpires are legion. He came up with an innovation when, ordered from the park several years ago, he directed his team from a utility pole which overlooked the field.

Five years ago the Ducks were in a hot race for the title when one of Holmes' ace players became ineligible. The league fine for using an ineligible man was $50 and Ducky needed the player worse then he needed $50, so he kept him in uniform — for 19 games. League officials ruled it would cost Dayton $50 a game—$950. Holmes howled, but paid.

When two teams decided not to play the following year, the resourceful Dayton manager conducted a successful one-man campaign to sign up two new clubs.

The league, as a gesture of appreciation, told him to submit a bill for expenses. The unitemized account came to $950 even.

* * *

In other Mid-Atlantic contests last night Zanesville and Springfield divided a double-header, Zanesville taking the first 2 to 1 and the Cardinals the second 3 to 2. Erie and Charleston split a twin bill, the Sailors winning the opener 2 to 1 and Charleston the nightcap 1 to 0.

QUERY QUITS WILLARD

WILLARD — (AP) — David B. Query, athletic director of Willard high school for the past 11 years, has resigned to accept a similar post at Chillicothe, O. His football and basketball teams won Little Big Four championships last season. His successor was not named.

The keenest senses of smell in nature are possessed by the insects. Marked male moths have flown to female moths from distances of several miles away. The "feelers" contain the olfactory organs.

Long a popular belief, but not founded on fact, according to scientists, is the belief that sharks have to turn belly up to bite. They feed right side up under water, and turn over when seizing surface objects to avoid exposing themselves.

Here's a simple safety rule that, if always remembered, would prevent accidental injuries by firearms. "Always treat a gun as if it were loaded (even though you know it is not.")

Getting out in the open for occasional periods of recreation and relaxation is especially important in keeping fit these days. And there are plenty of opportunities for enjoyable sport, without traveling far from home, provided by Yuncker's sports equipment. Fishing, camping, archery, shooting are just a few. For every sport you'll find just the right equipment at Yuncker's headquarters for dependable sporting goods, always reasonably priced.

Ohio is taking a prominent part in the war effort by furnishing large quantities of walnut used for gun stocks. Last year Ohio was third in the nation's output of walnut, and anyone owning walnut trees, preferably a foot or larger at the base, can render a valuable service by turning them in at a mill to be transferred to Government use.

PAM—"Too Precious." By A. W. Brewerton

WHAT DO YOU MEAN, DAVID, YOU HAD PLANNED TO PLACE ME IN THE OFFICE ?
I MEAN, I MADE A MISTAKE ABOUT USING YOU! I CANT GO ON WITH IT, PAM, LETTING YOU IN FOR SUCH DANGER !
8-15
I REALIZE IT STRONGLY SINCE I'VE BEEN TALKING TO YOU! DO YOU KNOW THESE SABOTEURS ARE LIABLE TO PLANT A TIME BOMB, BLOW THE WHOLE PLANT OFF THE MAP! YOU ARE FAR TOO PRECIOUS TO ME, DEAR, TO PLACE IN SUCH JEOPARDY !
DAVID, I'M NOT AFRAID! WHY SHOULD YOU TAKE ALL THE RISKS ? YOU ARE PRECIOUS TO ME, DAVID! LIFE WOULD NOT BE WORTH LIVING IF--- IS ANYTHING HAPPENED TO YOU YOU ARE DOING IT FOR YOUR COUNTRY, AND I DON'T TRY TO HOLD YOU BACK,
..I'M PROUD OF YOU! BUT WHY SHOULDN'T I SERVE MY COUNTRY, TOO?
PAM, YOU SHOULD HAVE BEEN A LAWYER! I'LL DECIDE IN THE MORNING!

RUNS ON LITTLE GAS

BEEVILLE, Tex.—(U.P.)—Gasoline rationing holds no fears for J. Wright. He gets 47 miles to the gallon in his car. It is a 1905 Maxwell. "I haven't touched the motor in 10 years and it starts with the first crank," Wright says. "Why, I drove it from California in 1932."

Locomotives and freight cars are built in Britain to transport supplies to Russia over the Persian railroads.

THAT AXIS SUB CAME IN THROUGH THIS PASSAGE-
OH, LOOK-THERE'S A LITTLE SANDY BEACH WHERE WE CAN PICNIC--
THERE'S TH' CHANNEL OUT THERE-- LOT O' BIG BOATS GO BY EVERY DAY-
8-15-42
THAT'S WHY TH' COVE WAS SUCH A HANDY HIDIN' PLACE FOR THAT SUB-
HEY! LOOK! THERE GOES A BIG FREIGHTER INTO PORT NOW-- WOW, WHAT A DIRTY BOAT- BUT IT'S PAINTED THAT WAY TO MAKE IT HARD FOR TH' ENEMY TO SEE-- WONDER WHERE IT'S FROM-NO TELLIN'- 'OVER THERE' SOMEWHERE--
LOOK! THEY JUST THREW SOMETHIN' OVERBOARD!
HEY! IT'S SWIMMIN'--
IT JUMPED OVERBOARD!
IT'S A KID!
IT'S SWIMMIN' THIS WAY-

STOCK LEADERS KEEP UP RALLY BY FRACTIONS

Lumber Production Boosted Slightly But Trails Output of 1941.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leading stocks extended the recent rallying push by fractions in today's early market proceedings.

In front at a quiet opening were General Motors, Santa Fe, Du Pont, General Electric, Standard Oil (NJ), Pullman, Ohio Oil, Kennecott, Pan American Airways and Patino Mines.

Those searching for trend clues noted the survey of the National Lumber Manufacturers association disclosed today that, while lumber production in the week ended Aug. 8 was up a shade over the preceding week, it was 9 per cent less than in the comparable 1941 period.

Some satisfaction was derived from the announcement that rail shipments of oil to the eastern seaboard last week reached a new record total of 809,430 barrels daily. The previous peak figure was 800,100 barrels established in the week of July 25.

Build War Plants To Last 10 Years Engineer Reveals

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — War plants, now in various stages of construction throughout the nation are not expected to last more than 10 years, according to Walter E. Joyce, assistant to the chief engineer, Defense Plant corporation.

Joyce told a conference of industrial realtors in Pittsburgh that the huge factories, so essential to our winning of the war, are only temporary in character "with structural stability designed to meet actual needs and with a life expectancy of seven to 10 years."

Pointing out that redesigning of needed plants as temporary structures already has solved critical materials, he said:

"Redesigning of one large plant alone saved 15,000 tons of steel, enough for 12 destroyers. Except in unusual cases projects that will not go into production in 1942 of early 1943 are being deferred to save steel, to save manpower, to save machine tools for the immediate effort."

Bronx Undergoes Second Strange Attack of Gas

rotton eggs and a mud flat at low tide.

It disturbs sleep, creates nausea, discolors paint, tranishes metals.

Willard Beach, one of the section's property owners, declared the odor was far more sickening than in the first visitation in July. Beach said the fumes had penetrated his refrigerator—and the enamel turned black.

To Mayor F. H. La Guardia, Beach sent this telegram:

"Another attack of hydrogen sulphate gas of greater intensity and covering greater area of Clason Point section now in progress. Paint in homes turning black. Residents nauseated. Odor unbearable. Immediate action imperative."

The mayor asked experts from the bureau of mines in Washington to investigate.

There is one ray of sunshine—Beach said the smell is so offensive that it has chased away the mosquitoes.

government as material for war production.

Stough said he had obtained Mayor William J. Locke's consent to remove the cannons, but the mayor told him he would have to get the war department's' approval to junk the big guns that have decorated the park for many years.

The Legion gun and other scrap metal collected in the city will go to the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company to be re-melted to provide usable steel for the nation's war program.

Money obtained from the sale of scrap metal that is donated will go into a special fund to buy Christmas packages for the county's 3,000 men in the armed services, Legion Commander Sam Fox said.

Before the city scrap drive gets under way Wednesday, two bins will be erected at the west side of Central park, one to receive old metal and the other for scrap rubber, rags, and other materials needed to make war equipment, Stough said today.

He announced that total scrap materials collected so far in the campaign in the southern part of the county amounts to more than 136,000 pounds, or 68 tons.

RAPS SERVICES FOR KISKA LOSS

Investigator Says Lack of Co-ordination Was Back Of Jap Attack.

working in closest cooperation with naval authorities," he said. "The naval command itself has been greatly strengthened with new blood and experience. Communications are now better. Our bases are rapidly rounding into shape and all the time I was there I never heard the word 'defense' mentioned once.

"It's offensive from now on. I think the army command in Alaska would welcome a Japanese task force at this stage of the game."

Magnuson said he saw no immediate threat that Alaska would be invaded by the Japanese, but warned that the Aleutians could become a handy springboard for such a drive.

"In one way," he added, "the Japanese occupation of Kiska and Attu helped us. In concentrated Jap forces so that we can get at them up there all in one blow, and has already given us a chance for attack.

"Our subs sank seven or eight destroyers and our planes got ships in the harbor."

The weather in the Aleutians, Magnuson said, is proving of more help to the Japs than to American forces, due to the fact that the fog there blows from west to east.

"Our losses have been heavy, but more plane crashes have resulted from blind flying than because of shooting ability of the Japs," the congressman asserted.

Magnuson said he was convinced the military plan is to pulverize Kiska out of commission or to take it by invasion before winter.

"Air power and more air power is needed to smash the Nipponese from the islands," he said. "However, the army and navy are moving in Alaska. There are plenty of troops in Alaska if the military authorities want to take Kiska back by invasion."

Speaking again of the unity now prevailing in the Alaska command, the congressman said:

"I found army and navy commanders rooming together and eating together. They are in constant conference. But I wish the navy would announce its commander in Alaska. The name of this man would be a wonderful stimulant and morale builder."

CHAPTER XXIX

Morley turned away, breathed deeply. He spoke with sudden vehemence: "It tortures me to be cruel! To have walked out on Laurie would have broken her heart. I couldn't do it! I hope you won't take advantage of my confession. If I assume a duty and don't like it, I just can't get myself out of it as quickly as possible! Damn it all, there's got to be such a thing as good faith."

Audrey thought of her duty to Gordon. Morley continued: "If I marry a woman and promise to look after her, well, it's up to me to do it. It's my job. I took it on, and until Laurie was willing to release me, I couldn't chuck her. Laurie was my wife, that's all there was to it. I guess I'd have stayed on with her forever if death hadn't taken her from me!"

Audrey leaned forward. She said in a low voice, "So it was like that with you? Till death did you part. And that was the only thing that could part her from you—her death?"

While they had been talking, his wily brain had been reflecting seriously on the issues and possibilities of what she was after. His power to dominate a weaker mind, was failing him tonight when he needed it most. He was afraid that truth was shining in his eyes.

"Of course I felt badly when Laurie died," he said. "I couldn't sleep for weeks."

"I can understand that," she remarked, "of course you couldn't."

Something in her voice shocked him. It was as though she pitied him. Yet she still looked at him innocently enough.

"You know she died of pneumonia. One night, she was caught in a cloudburst. She was never the same after that."

"Just lay in bed and got worse every day?"

"Yes," he answered glibly.

"And you were at her bedside when she died?"

"Well, no," he said. "I was away on a business deal."

"She died in the room in which I am now sleeping?"

"Yes . . . See here, Audrey, I really never realized that you might not like Laurie's room. I've been very thoughtless."

"The same room where her three pets had died, too?"

"Yes."

"It sounds like a murder mystery plot."

"Murder?" He laughed sardonically. "Who'd be the murderer?"

She pinned him with her eyes. "You!"

The next morning Clifford Morley was closeted with the devil, who had sat on his shoulders all night, hissing, "Murderer!" into his ear. He stared at himself in the mirror, at his sleeked hair, the whitish skin with the thin blue veins under it. With undue care, he chose the white oxford shirt and blue knitted tie, fresh kerchief, his brown oxfords; everything that was unimportant became a matter of great consideration; the proper fulness of the tie took him ten minutes to arrange. He filled his mind with trivia, crowded out the thoughts of Audrey and her eyes, but her last words still burned in his brain. His left hand trembled when he took several straight brandies. He toasted himself, like a man who is about to be hanged. He stuck a flower in his lapel, hoping it would detract attention from his face. He braced shoulders, opened the door, and descended the stairs.

Oliver was waiting for him. He had driven in early with his suitcase and two or three small packages.

Morley greeted Oliver coldly and told the butler that he might take Audrey to the Jackpot mine and show her the new strike. Oliver merely nodded, "So you've told her about it?"

The doorbell rang. Oliver opened the door.

The man peering inside the door stood with his head uncovered; his gray hair was short bristling; his face was deeply tanned and lined, his eyes were gray.

"I have come to see muster Morley," he said. "Mah nom is George Iverson."

Morley, glancing across the hallway toward the newcomer, frowned. He was in no mood, especially then, to talk to Laurie's brother-in-law. Laurie! Laurie! Was there never to be an end of hearing that accusing name? He ground his teeth at the thought of it, but when he saw there was no way of avoiding the interview without offending Iverson he nodded to Oliver and went into the library.

Iverson was abubble with good nature, and offered congratulations. "'Tis all over the city, Mr. Morley, that the Jackpot will soon be spouting out gold like water from a pump."

"Yes, that's so," snapped Morley.

"And it couldn't have come at a better time, could it" the grizzled Scot asked.

"No." Morley was curt and unattentive. It made no impression on the hard case man standing before him.

"I hope you have na' forgotten we're a puttin' up the bronze plaque which I always wanted to dedicate to the memory of my good brother, Ben, and Laurie?"

Morley jumped up quickly. He growled, "All right then, put it up. Good God, put it up!"

"Still jealous of my brother Ben, eh?" asked George Iverson.

"I was never jealous of your brother. But I don't think Laurie should have been buried in his mausoleum. I wanted to buy a burial plot for her. But it doesn't matter now. I agreed to your wishes."

"They were Laurie's wishes, not mine, and written into her will, too," said Iverson.

"Well, her wishes were carried out. I didn't do anything about it."

"You couldn't. Get your coat, mon. I want you to be present at the ceremony when the bronze is unveiled today. It will be proper and touchin' ye be there."

"Today?" Morley asked; then added, "I'm not feeling so well this morning, George, I'm afraid I won't be able to go with you. Why didn't you give me earlier notice?"

"I must say I forgot and I dinna want to put you out. I'll postpone the whole thing until you feel better, Mr. Morley. How about tomorrow?" Morley wiggled at this. "I don't like going to cemeteries any more than ye do. But 'tis the last obligation that you and I as executors of her will must do for her and puir Ben."

"But can't you do it without me?"

"No. I want you to be there . . . as her husband. 'Tis na too much to ask."

"How long will the ceremony take?"

"No more than ten minutes. All you have to do is go inside the mausoleum and pull the white sheet off the bronze. 'Tis very purty and many's the person will say 'tis a fine tribute from you."

"All right. Better get it over with. I'll go with you."

Iverson drove his own car. They sped along a road heading west from Callada, turned curve after curve as they wound up the mountain side. From below, Iverson pointed out the cemetery on the side of the hill; near the top. Several cars were bunched in front of the large bronze grilled high spiked doors that led into the spacious green grounds.

"I'm not waiting here very long. No hand-shaking," warned Morley.

"I understand how you feel, Mr. Morley. No hand shaking, it is no one will be there but the grave diggers."

They got out of the car and walked down the gravel path. Men in denim jackets were waiting for them and fell in after them, wordless.

"Why do we need four men" inquired Morley.

"Mr. Morley, 'tis their cemetery not mine, and I dinna' ken the rules about a job like this!"

They followed the winding path among the granite and marble headstones. Behind them, the crunching of footsteps sounded like a thin ghostly echo.

"Remember Laurie's funeral?" began Iverson. "Never been to anything larger this side of the Rockies. That big hearse, and that fine casket."

"I paid for the circus, didn't I? I should remember it?"

"Bronze coffin, wasn't it, Mr. Morley?"

"Had to be!"

"Why?"

"Because it's required by law. Can't you talk . . . about something more pleasant?" Then suddenly they were at the entrance of the heavy squat, granite crypt. In bold, sculptured lettering over the heavy bronze doors was: "BEN AND LAURIE IVERSON"

"Go on in, Mr. Morley. You might say a few words about her."

"For grave diggers to listen to?" sneered Morley.

Iverson stared at him and Morley pushed open the heavy door and went into the shadowy interior.

George Iverson and the grave diggers followed him, and stood in the darkness inside. The crypt was six feet high. Dim light flickered through the small, square, begrimed windows. The interior was somber. The air was heavy and damp. A white sheet was in a dark corner.

"'Tis the plaque," said Iverson. "We'll get to it later."

The two coffins lay side by side as if Ben and Laurie wanted the eternal rest together.

Iverson lit a candle to aid the light from the partly opened metal door. The men in denim jackets stood back of Morley, hats in their hands, near the door. Iverson took a small Bible from his pocket, held it to the light, and began reading: "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away." His voice went on in a monotone. "the valley of the shadow of death." He closed the book and bowed his head. When he raised it, he said, "And now we'll have our last look at poor Laurie before we unveil the plaque."

"Are you crazy? What for?" protested Morley. "She's been lying in her coffin for four years. Let me out of here. I've had enough!"

"Mr. Morley, as executors, this closes our duties concerning the last wishes of puir Laurie and Ben. It's just a wee matter of legal formality to see that they are side by side as Ben would have it."

"That's absurd. I know she's there and so do you!"

"Hold on a bit, Mr. Morley. All we have to do is lift the lid and look in."

"Not me. That lid is screwed down tight!"

"I had the men loosen it yesterday. One wee look and t'will be enough. Push it aside, now. One last look at your wife."

"Let me out of here! Let's get out of here," ejaculated Morley. He ripped the white sheet off the plaque. A bronze tablet was there—and from somewhere back of it, stepped Gordon Blake.

The four men behind Morley acted strangely. They had taken off the denim jackets. On the lapels of two coats, police badges showed. The others were the Denver district attorney and Dr. Wilston, a physician.

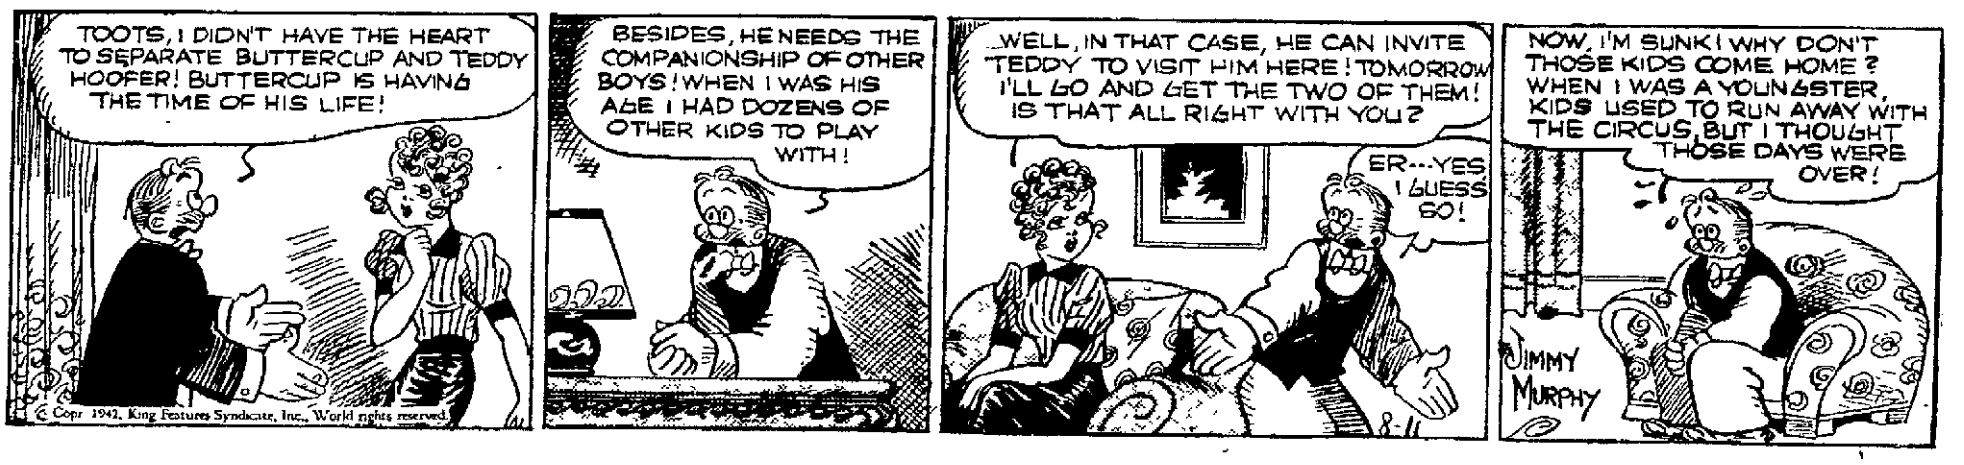
TOOTS STILL DOESN'T KNOW THAT BUTTERCUP HAS RUN AWAY FROM HOME. SHE THINKS HE IS VISITING TEDDY HOOFER.
TOOTS, I DON'T KNOW WHY YOU WANT ME TO BRING BUTTERCUP HOME! HE'S HAVING A SWELL TIME WITH TEDDY HOOFER!
Copr 1942 King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
WHY NOT LET HIM STAY THERE AND ENJOY HIMSELF? HE'S LONESOME HERE WITH NOBODY TO PLAY WITH!
A FEW MORE DAYS WITH TEDDY HOOFER WON'T HURT HIM!
NO, CASPER! HE'LL WEAR OUT HIS WELCOME! YOU GO RIGHT OVER AND GET HIM!
I'LL HAVE TO THINK UP A GOOD EXCUSE FOR NOT BRINGING BUTTERCUP HOME! I WISH THOSE KIDS WOULD SHOW UP! I'M BEGINNING TO GET WORRIED ABOUT THEM!
JIMMY MURPHY



TOOTS, I DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO SEPARATE BUTTERCUP AND TEDDY HOOFER! BUTTERCUP IS HAVING THE TIME OF HIS LIFE!

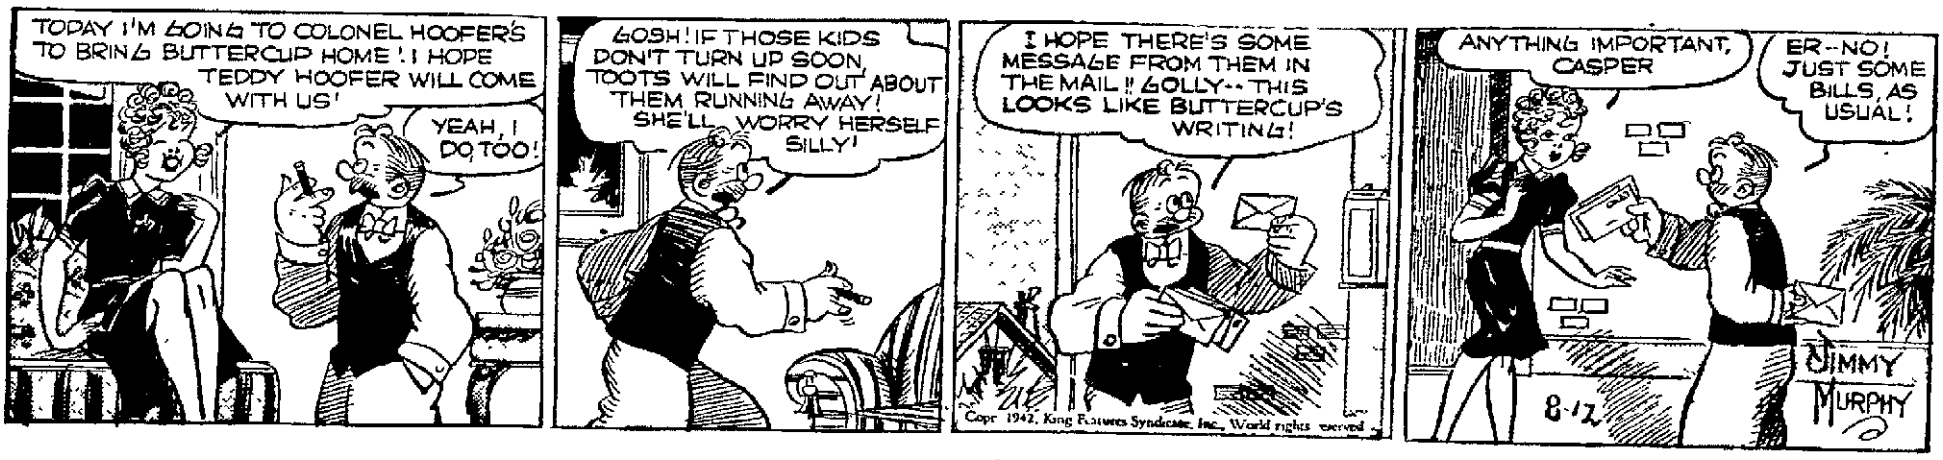
BESIDES, HE NEEDS THE COMPANIONSHIP OF OTHER BOYS! WHEN I WAS HIS AGE I HAD DOZENS OF OTHER KIDS TO PLAY WITH!
WELL, IN THAT CASE, HE CAN INVITE TEDDY TO VISIT HIM HERE! TOMORROW I'LL GO AND GET THE TWO OF THEM! IS THAT ALL RIGHT WITH YOU?
ER--YES I GUESS SO!
NOW, I'M SUNK! WHY DON'T THOSE KIDS COME HOME? WHEN I WAS A YOUNGSTER, KIDS USED TO RUN AWAY WITH THE CIRCUS, BUT I THOUGHT THOSE DAYS WERE OVER!
JIMMY MURPHY



TODAY I'M GOING TO COLONEL HOOFER'S TO BRING BUTTERCUP HOME! I HOPE TEDDY HOOFER WILL COME WITH US!
YEAH, I DO, TOO!
GOSH! IF THOSE KIDS DON'T TURN UP SOON, TOOTS WILL FIND OUT ABOUT THEM RUNNING AWAY! SHE'LL WORRY HERSELF SILLY!
I HOPE THERE'S SOME MESSAGE FROM THEM IN THE MAIL! GOLLY--THIS LOOKS LIKE BUTTERCUP'S WRITING!

Dear Daddy: Teddy and I got tired walking, so we decided to rest up at this classy camp. We liked it so much we're staying two weeks. Love to you and mama Buttercup
P.S. You will get the bill in tomorrow's mail.
CASPER WHAT'S THE MEANING OF THIS? YOU TOLD ME BUTTERCUP WAS VISITING TEDDY HOOFER!
THEY RAN AWAY FROM HOME, TOOTS, AND I DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO TELL YOU!
OH, YOU POOR DEAR! YOU MUST HAVE BEEN TERRIBLY WORRIED!
YES, AND IT WAS ALL UNNECESSARY! THOSE KIDS KNOW HOW TO LOOK OUT FOR THEMSELVES--AND HOW!
JIMMY MURPHY
8-14

ANOTHER LETTER FROM BUTTERCUP, CASPER?
NO, A BILL FROM THE CAMP--TWO WEEKS AT $50 A WEEK! THOSE KIDS SURE HAVE EXPENSIVE TASTE!
CASPER, DID YOU HEAR FROM BUTTERCUP?
I SURE DID--AND ALSO FROM THAT CLASSY CAMP WHERE THE KIDS ARE STAYING!
8-15
SO DID I! I GOT AN AWFUL SHOCK WHEN I SAW THEIR BILL!
I FELT THAT WAY, TOO, BUT AS LONG AS THE KIDS ARE SAFE, I'D BE GLAD TO PAY TWICE AS MUCH!
I'M GLAD TO HEAR YOU SAY THAT, CASPER, BECAUSE I WAS JUST GOING TO BORROW $100 FROM YOU TO PAY TEDDY'S BILL! I'M BROKE!
I SHOULD HAVE KNOWN THAT, COL. HOOFER! BUT WHY DO YOU ALWAYS HAVE TO TAKE EVERYTHING I SAY SO LITERALLY?

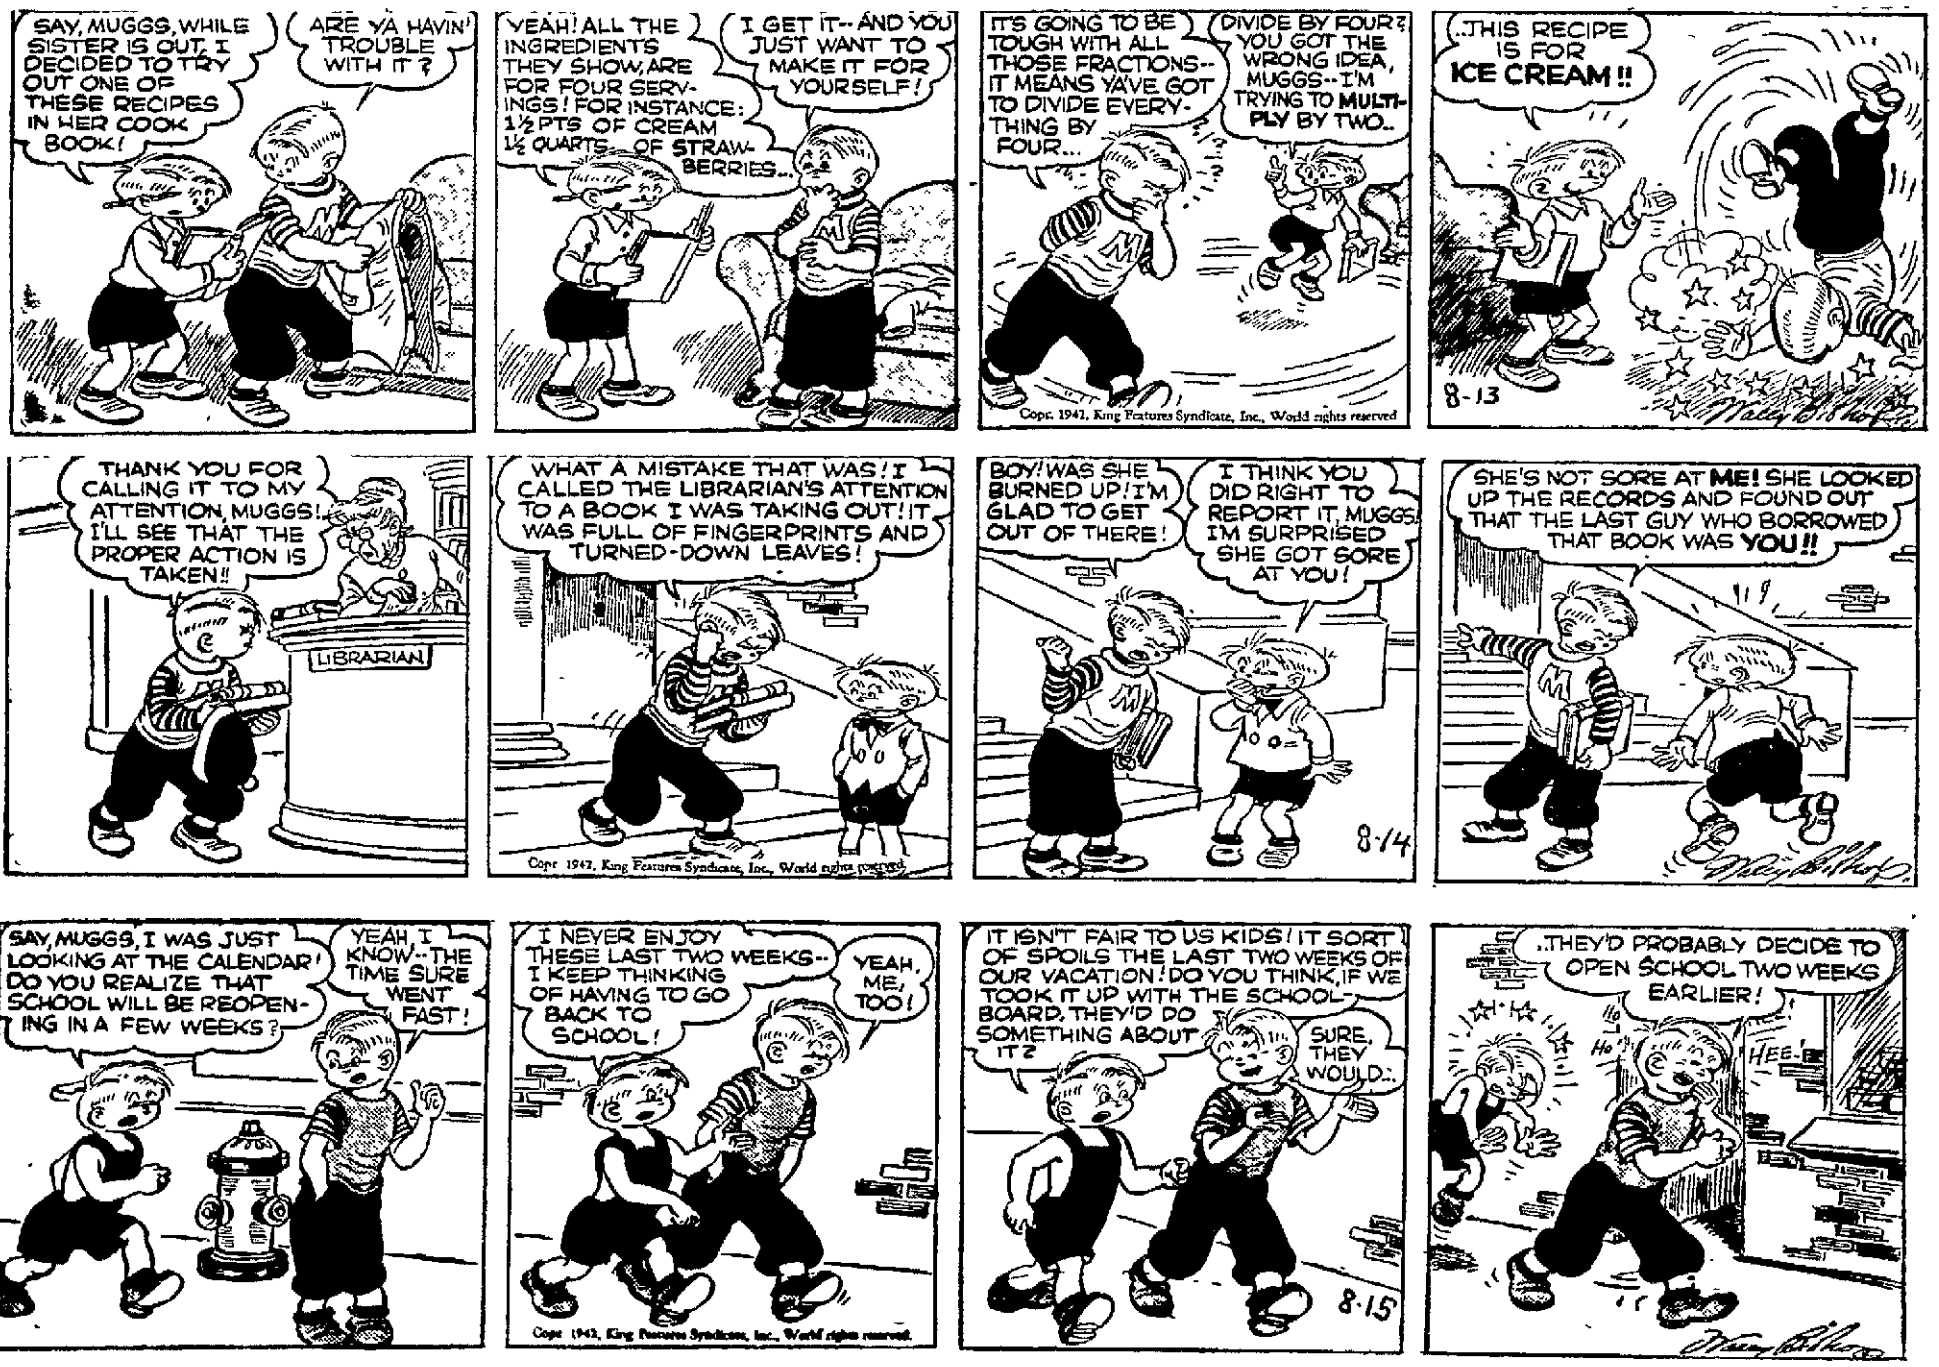
MISS BROADFOOT, DID I EVER TELL YOU ABOUT THE INTERESTING OCCUPATION MY FAMILY HAS BEEN ENGAGED IN? FOR FOUR GENERATIONS THEY HAVE ALL BEEN TEA-TASTERS!!
AH NEVER HEERD O'SICH A FOOLISH THANG!!
INDEED, IT'S A VERY HONORABLE PROFESSION!! I WAS TO HAVE BEEN TRAINED IN THEIR FOOTSTEPS!!
JIST A MINUTE, WHILE I SET DOWN THIS HYAR APPLE PIE!!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
...BUT WITH THE CURRENT SHORTAGE OF TEA, I HAVE DECIDED TO DEVOTE MY "TASTING" TALENTS TO SOME OTHER PRODUCT!!
WHUT, F'R INSTANCE?
8-11
..ER..AH.... APPLE PIE-- FOR INSTANCE!!
HAIRCUT, SIR?
SHAVE, SIR?
TRIM YOUR BEARD, SIR?
WHUT'S TH'MATTER WIF' ALL THEM FELLARS?
Copr. 1942 King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
EF THEY HED AN EYE IN THER HAIDS THEY COULD SEE AH DON'T NEED NONE O'THEM THANGS----AH JIST CAME IN HYAR FER A SHINE!
8-12



SAY, MUGGS, WHILE SISTER IS OUT, I DECIDED TO TRY OUT ONE OF THESE RECIPES IN HER COOK BOOK!
ARE YA HAVIN' TROUBLE WITH IT?
YEAH! ALL THE INGREDIENTS THEY SHOW, ARE FOR FOUR SERVINGS! FOR INSTANCE: 1½ PTS OF CREAM 1½ QUARTS OF STRAWBERRIES...
I GET IT-- AND YOU JUST WANT TO MAKE IT FOR YOURSELF!
IT'S GOING TO BE TOUGH WITH ALL THOSE FRACTIONS-- IT MEANS YA'VE GOT TO DIVIDE EVERYTHING BY FOUR...
DIVIDE BY FOUR? YOU GOT THE WRONG IDEA, MUGGS-- I'M TRYING TO MULTIPLY BY TWO..
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
..THIS RECIPE IS FOR ICE CREAM!!
8-13
THANK YOU FOR CALLING IT TO MY ATTENTION, MUGGS! I'LL SEE THAT THE PROPER ACTION IS TAKEN!!
LIBRARIAN
WHAT A MISTAKE THAT WAS! I CALLED THE LIBRARIAN'S ATTENTION TO A BOOK I WAS TAKING OUT! IT WAS FULL OF FINGERPRINTS AND TURNED-DOWN LEAVES!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
BOY! WAS SHE BURNED UP! I'M GLAD TO GET OUT OF THERE!
I THINK YOU DID RIGHT TO REPORT IT, MUGGS! I'M SURPRISED SHE GOT SORE AT YOU!
8-14
SHE'S NOT SORE AT ME! SHE LOOKED UP THE RECORDS AND FOUND OUT THAT THE LAST GUY WHO BORROWED THAT BOOK WAS YOU!!
SAY, MUGGS, I WAS JUST LOOKING AT THE CALENDAR! DO YOU REALIZE THAT SCHOOL WILL BE REOPENING IN A FEW WEEKS?
YEAH, I KNOW-- THE TIME SURE WENT FAST!
I NEVER ENJOY THESE LAST TWO WEEKS-- I KEEP THINKING OF HAVING TO GO BACK TO SCHOOL!
YEAH, ME, TOO!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
IT ISN'T FAIR TO US KIDS! IT SORT OF SPOILS THE LAST TWO WEEKS OF OUR VACATION! DO YOU THINK, IF WE TOOK IT UP WITH THE SCHOOL BOARD, THEY'D DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT?
SURE, THEY WOULD..
8-15
..THEY'D PROBABLY DECIDE TO OPEN SCHOOL TWO WEEKS EARLIER!
HEE-HEE!

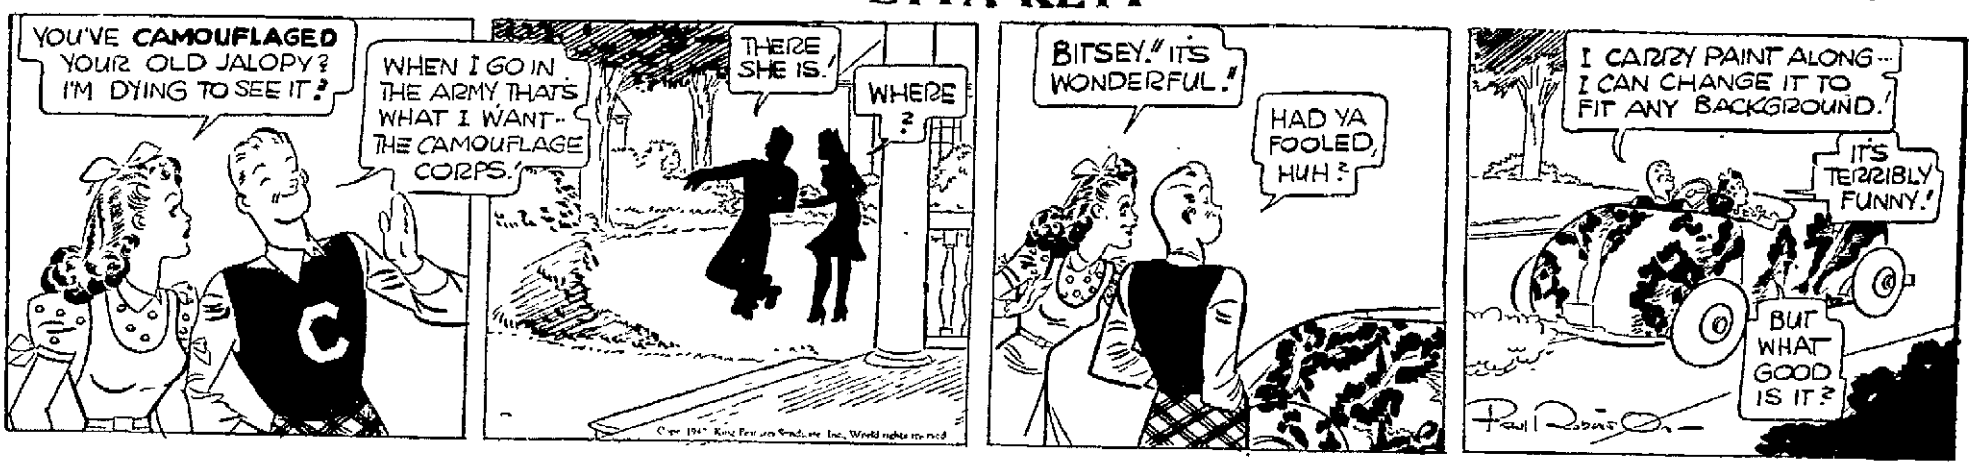
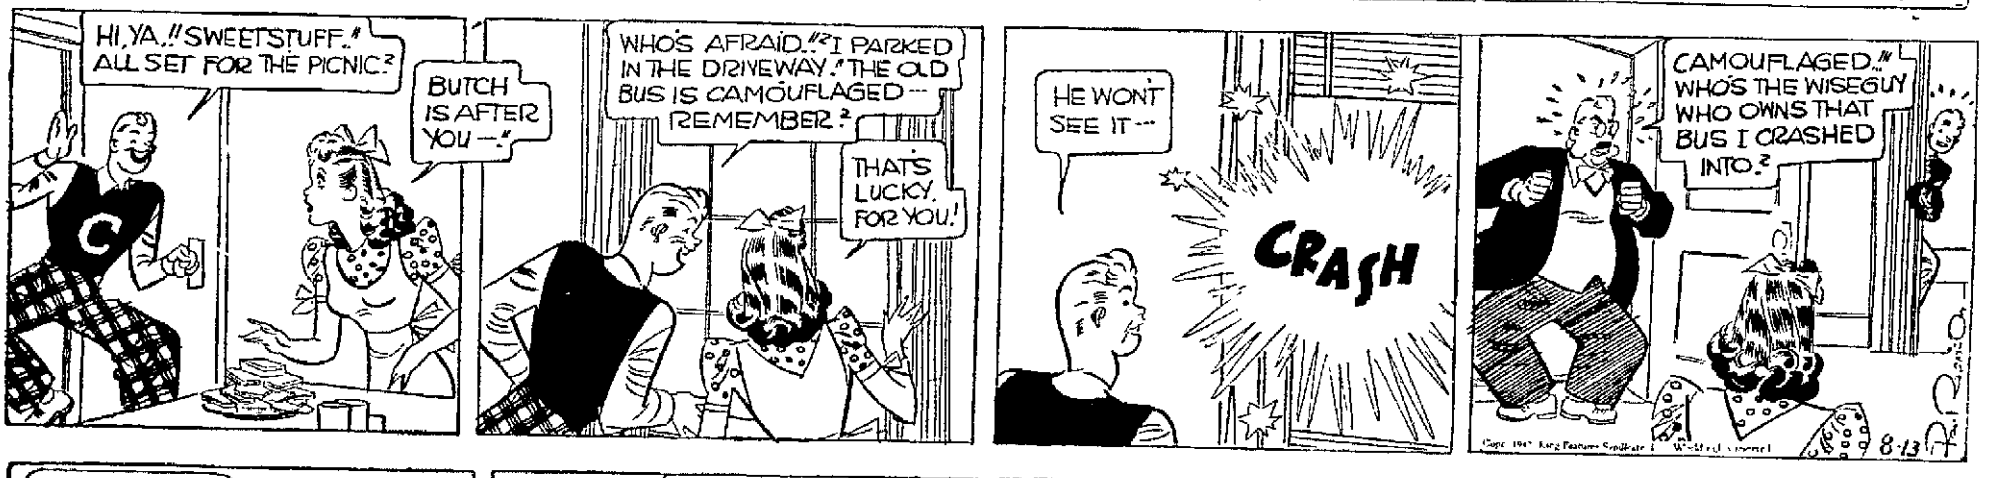
ETTA KETT



YOU'VE CAMOUFLAGED YOUR OLD JALOPY? I'M DYING TO SEE IT!
WHEN I GO IN THE ARMY THAT'S WHAT I WANT- THE CAMOUFLAGE CORPS.
THERE SHE IS.
WHERE?
BITSEY." IT'S WONDERFUL."
HAD YA FOOLED, HUH?
I CARRY PAINT ALONG-- I CAN CHANGE IT TO FIT ANY BACKGROUND.
IT'S TERRIBLY FUNNY.
BUT WHAT GOOD IS IT?
YEP.' I CAMOUFLAGED THE OLD JALOPY." NEAT JOB, EH?
NEAT, PLENTY." BUT WHAT'S THE IDEA?
NO PARKING.
LET'S STOP HERE N' WATCH THE MOON."
I WAS SURE I SAW A CAR DRIVE IN THIS LANE.'
YA MUST BE DREAMIN
POLICE RADIO CAR
LISTEN, WART." DONT LET ME CATCH YOU HANGIN' AROUND ETTA."
OKAY, BUTCH.'
I'LL BE WATCHIN' HER HOUSE, SO DONT TRY TO PUT ANYTHING OVER ON ME.'
OKAY, YA BIG MOOSE.'
8-12
HEH.' HEH." HE WONT SEE MY JALOPY---- I GOT 'ER CAMOUFLAGED.'
OH, YEAH? NO, KIDDIN'?
HEY, NOT BAD."
I'M TAKIN' ETTA TO A BEACH PICNIC, I'LL PAINT WAVES N SAND ON IT." NEAT??



HI, YA." SWEETSTUFF." ALL SET FOR THE PICNIC?
BUTCH IS AFTER YOU--."
WHO'S AFRAID." I PARKED IN THE DRIVEWAY." THE OLD BUS IS CAMOUFLAGED--- REMEMBER?
THAT'S LUCKY FOR YOU!
HE WON'T SEE IT---
CRASH
CAMOUFLAGED." WHO'S THE WISEGUY WHO OWNS THAT BUS I CRASHED INTO?
8-13
WELL, WE GOT RID OF BUTCH.' --AND WE'RE ALL ALONE."
HE MAY FOLLOW US.'
THIS IS A KEEN SPOT TO PICNIC.'
WE'LL GO UP THE BEACH-- BUT FIRST I'VE GOT SOME PAINTING TO DO."
JUST IN CASE BUTCH DOES FOLLOW US --I'LL CAMOUFLAGE THIS BUS--
HOW'S THAT, FOR A NEAT JOB?
I'LL HURRY AND TOW BITSEY'S CAR AWAY-- BEFORE HE GETS BACK.'
HI!' LOST?
BITSEY CAMOUFLAGED HIS CAR TO LOOK LIKE THE BEACH -- NOW HE CAN'T FIND IT.'
HEY." WHERE YOU GOING?
I'LL RIDE BACK TO TOWN WITH BUTCH.'-- THANKS FOR THE PICNIC."
HOPE YOU FIND YOUR CAR, BITSEY.'
I SURE DID A SWELL JOB OF CAMOUFLAGE ON THAT JALOPY. CAN'T FIND IT, MYSELF, NOW!
